Bipartisan Foreign Policy Was Crushed By Dems, Ike Says

Optimism Among Aides High As Big Tour Opens

General Promises To Cooperate With Dems If Elected President

ABOARD EISENHOWER SPECIAL (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower accused the administration today of crushing a bipartisan approach to foreign policy by trying to take all the credit for the good things and blaming Republicans for the bad.

He promised that if elected President he would cooperate with Democrats and make them "real partners" in working out basic foreign policies.

Eisenhower gave this declaration in a speech at Flint, Mich., as he carried his time-for-a-change campaign westward on a 28-state drive that could make or break his presidential hopes.

Optimism was running high on this push through Michigan into states that will have 361 electoral votes out of the 531 total — or more than enough to swing the election in his favor if he can carry them.

Praised Vandenberg

The GOP presidential nominee chose Flint as the point to give high praise to the late Republican Sen. Arthur Vandenberg Sr. of Michigan, who was a strong exponent of a bipartisan foreign policy.

He said Vandenberg saw that no nation, no matter how strong, could win security by its own efforts alone — and that collective security meant "enlightened self-interest."

"The fervor of his faith," Eisenhower said, "was so contagious that he ended once and for all the old American belief in isolationism."

Eisenhower charged that Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson had failed to give Vandenberg and the Republican Party credit for the part they played in a bipartisan foreign policy.

Abused By Administration

"What must be said in truth," he said, "is that . . . the bipartisan approach to which Sen. Vandenberg was dedicated is being crushed by the abuse to which the party in power and its leaders are subjecting it."

"It is not possible to have continuing cooperation on the administration basis of heads they win and tails the Republicans lose. That is the way bipartisanship works today. The Democrats claim all the credit for its good fruits and blame the Republicans for its bad fruits."

Eisenhower said the Republican Party platform gives "complete support and endorsement" to foreign policies which have been worked out on a bipartisan basis. He added:

"It attacks and criticizes only where there has been no such cooperation, as in relations to the Middle East, Africa, and South America and China and Korea."

On his journey west, Eisenhower carried with him the warm memories of the late Senator.

GOP Changes Mind On Using Reds In CIA As Issue In Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leaders appeared today to be taking a long, second look at the question of making political capital of statements by Gen. Walter Bedell Smith about possible Communist infiltration into America's top intelligence agency.

First reaction in the GOP camp

Lewis Achieves Mine Wage Hike Without Strike

Southern Operators Sign Pact, But Say Terms Too Steep

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the second straight year John L. Lewis has come up with a wage boost for miners without a strike—but at a price that industry leaders say may force many mines out of business.

Southern coal producers came to terms with the United Mine Workers chief late yesterday, thereby avoiding a threatened walkout today of their 100,000 miners.

The Dixie group agreed to the same terms Lewis had previously negotiated with the rest of the industry — a $1.90 daily pay increase, plus a 10-cent-a-ton hike in the operator-paid royalty for the union's welfare fund. The daily wage now becomes $18.25 and the royalty 40 cents a ton.

May Close Some Mines

A number of industry leaders said that undoubtedly a number of mines would have to close, rather than try to pay the new costs. These, they said, are the less-mechanized, hand-labor mines where labor cost is relatively greater.

Even union leaders conceded privately some mines would have to close. One union man told a reporter: "Just as the farmer with a single hand plow can't keep going today against the competition from the mechanized farm, neither can a coal producer keep going without modern methods."

Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers Association, said a number of his member owners plan to close down some of their high-cost mines.

Seek Price Boost

Moody said this would be true even if the government hoists coal price ceilings. On that point Moody observed:

"We're going to try to get a dollar a ton increase because, if we don't get it, we won't be in the coal business very long."

Coal has been selling below present ceilings. Prices vary considerably by types and quality, but

Truman Says Ike Follows Private Power Lobbyists

President Dedicates Dam; Talks Aimed At Eisenhower Prestige

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN (AP)—President Truman, dedicating the 108-million dollar Hungry Horse Dam, accused Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today of turning against such projects after learning "the Republican party line."

Truman said the Republican presidential nominee is talking "like one of the lobbyists for the private power monopolies" and if he is elected, "it will be a long time before you see another structure of this kind."

It was another speech in the President's coolly calculated attempt to destroy Eisenhower's prestige in a "give 'em hell" campaign tour from coast to coast.

Dems' Hatchet Man

Truman is working the role of the Democratic party's "hatchet man" with the calm and relentless assurance of a veteran campaigner going about familiar work.

Leaving his campaign train at Columbia Falls, Mont., he viewed the dam and drove on to Kalispell for a dedicatory speech in the high school gymnasium.

"All of you who are here today had better go over and take another look at this dam, because if the Republicans win this election, it will be a long time before you see another structure of this kind," Truman said.

"The Republican candidate for president made it perfectly plain in a speech in Boise, Idaho, a few weeks ago that he was against dams like this," the President added.

Delighted At Campaign

Democratic candidates aboard Truman's special train expressed delight over the President's campaign in the state and over the response to his appearances.

Truman himself claimed the crowds were bigger than those of 1948.

He told a crowd at Shelby, Mont., there have been more people out to see him while he is "not running for office than there was to see me when I was—I don't know whether that has any significance or not."

At Belton last night, Truman opened up on Eisenhower again, as he had been doing all day. At the ground-breaking for the new Tiber Dam he touched off a blast of dynamite shooting the first dirt skyward.

"That's what we are going to do to Eisenhower," he said in a loud shout that went over all the loudspeakers.

He started off at Havre, Mont., by quoting Eisenhower as having told Congress late in 1945 that the one thing Russia wanted above all was good relations with the United States.

That statement, Truman said, delayed this country's awareness of Russia's real intentions and thus did "a great deal of harm."

He said Eisenhower "ought to be honest enough to admit his blunders" and also to "admit that he was perfectly willing to get on the band wagon on my policy in trying to meet the situation."

"I like Ike," he added later at Glasgow. "I like Ike as the commander in chief of the armed forces in France. But I don't like him for president."

Seeks Probation In Car Title Deal

Mark L. Ford of Bedford, formerly of Salem, changed his plea of not guilty to one of guilty on a charge of making fraudulent application to obtain a duplicate car title at a hearing Tuesday afternoon before Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp.

Ford, who had been indicted by the September grand jury, entered an innocent plea when arraigned Monday before Judge Sharp. He requested probation.

Ford was arrested last May in Salem on a complaint filed by Pete Wiggers, Ford's employer. He was returned to the Mahoning County jail under $1,000 bond to await his probation hearing.

Meanwhile, Miss Elaine Akers, 26, of Wellsville, was released under $1,500 bond after pleading guilty to an embezzlement charge on a secret indictment returned by the recent grand jury.

Miss Akers requested probation after admitting embezzling $2,330 from an East Liverpool clothing store while employed as a bookkeeper.

Members of Home Rebekah Lodge will hold services at 8:30 tonight at Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home for Sister Esther Roller.

U. S. Guards Kill 45 Reds To Quell Riot

ROBS BANK, KILLS POLICEMAN BEFORE CAPTURE—Reign of terror by a mental hospital escapee, Luigi Di Fraia, Jr., (top) who staged a $38,000 bank robbery, comes to an end after a running gun fight with police outside a private home in Pawtucket, R. I. Di Fraia invaded the home, held two housewives hostage and shot it out with 40 policemen, killing one, wounding two. Bleeding and wounded, he tried to use Mrs. Grace Laprade (lower right) as a shield, but a tear gas barrage forced him into hands of police (lower left). Di Fraia, 27, had held up the East Providence Industrial Trust company.

Stevenson Raps Clean Up Claim

Says GOP Couldn't Easily Detect Reds

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson bore down on the Communists-in-government issues today with a stand that the GOP is making a "ludicrous" claim it could easily end Red penetration of federal agencies.

The Democratic presidential nominee and his staff intensified, too, efforts to win over independent and other voters through a nation-wide organization of volunteers for Stevenson. Some 20 leaders of volunteer units from 37 states assembled here today for a major political rally.

Stevenson could find time only for a brief reception for his mansion. The Illinois governor was busy, among other things, on a speech for next week to be built almost entirely on the explosive Communist issue.

At the same time, he took steps to head off any exploitation by his Republican rival, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, of Gen. Walter Bedell Smith's statement that the assumption, there are Communists even in the hush-hush Central Intelligence Agency. Smith is chief of the intelligence agency.

Republicans seized on Smith's

House Probers Claim McGrath Frustrated Justice Clean Up

WASHINGTON, (AP)—House investigators said today that former Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath showed "no enthusiasm" for a Justice Department clean up—rather, he "appeared to wish to delay and frustrate investigation."

From their findings, investigators said, it appears clear that the Justice Department under McGrath wanted to prevent an examination of its files for reasons which "cannot but arouse suspicion."

McGrath, fired last April 3 by President Truman after the administration clean up drive bogged down, was raked over for a second time in Part II of a report by a House judiciary subcommittee.

Chapter 1 of the report, issued last Monday, criticized McGrath's appointment of Newbold Morris, New York lawyer, to head the clean up campaign and questioned McGrath's good faith in making the appointment.

In reply, McGrath commented simply that "the report is beneath the dignity of men who care to be honest and honorable."

Advised of today's second installment, the former attorney general told a reporter he had no intention of "engaging in a cross-fire of discussion on each of the committee's interim reports."

"I shall wait until they have concluded their work," he said, "and at that time I shall say what I think is appropriate."

In today's installment—the third is due next week—the subcommittee

City Council, at a special meeting Tuesday night, appropriated $2,500 from the auto fund to the payroll fund to pay street department employees.

The action was taken, President Ned Massa said, because the tax receipts from the county had not been received by the city.

Councilman Michael Schuller, in approving the transfer commented that he felt City Auditor Helen R. Coyne should attend the meetings, called to enact legislation relative to her department.

In additional business which councilmen voted to discuss, Councilman Robert K. Carpenter suggested that the members should form a campaign committee to publicize the 2.8 mill levy which has been placed on the Nov. 4 ballots.

Mr. Carpenter said that the levy was not understood by all potential voters and feared that it would not be approved at the election unless it was completely explained.

Council also voted to go through the formality of re-approving the 1953 budget after City Solicitor Walter J. Hunston said that a technicality had not been observed in approving it the first time.

The budget, he said, had not been given a public notice before Council adopted it. Now that it had been legally advertised, he stated, it should be re-approved to keep within the full letter of the law.

120 Other POWs Hurt; Celebrated Red Anniversary

Fanatics Attacked Guards; 2 U. S. GIs Injured Slightly

CHEJU ISLAND, Korea (AP)—American guards with blazing guns killed 45 Chinese prisoners of war and injured 120 others in quelling a riot today.

The POWs were celebrating the third anniversary of China's Communist regime when some fanatics turned the jubilee into an attack on their guards.

"The majority of those killed and wounded were shot," said a Prisoner of War Command spokesman. Two American soldiers were injured slightly.

The spokesman said: "It was really a fight. Due to all the confusion that surrounds an incident like this one, many details are lacking."

500 Attacked Men

The 500 fanatical prisoners battled two infantry platoons—about 80 men—with stones, rocks, clubs, tent poles and weapons improvised from materials in their compound.

From a standpoint of fatalities, today's riot was the second largest among POWs in Korea announced by the Army. Last February, in a similar riot on notorious Kote Island, 80 prisoners were killed.

About 6,400 hard-core Chinese Communists are quartered in various camps around Cheju City on the island south of Pusan. Also on Cheju are about 13,600 Chinese captives who have said they would resist repatriation to Communist China.

Had Banned Celebrations

The Army said the commander of the Cheju camp yesterday issued an order against prisoner demonstrations. Presumably he had anticipated trouble on the Red anniversary.

American guards went to the compound at 7:30 a.m. to form work details to continue construction in a "vast winterization program."

An Army announcement added: "The guards not only found the prisoners demonstrating, milling around and singing, but found that they had put up improvised Communist flags in the compound."

The guards called the camp commander and he "issued orders by loudspeaker that if the demonstration was not stopped, force would be used to effect compliance."

"The POWs refused to obey this lawful order of the camp commander and two platoons of U.S. infantry entered the compound to restore order."

The POWs took cover behind stone walls of their partially completed winter barracks and "met the infantry at the gate with showers of stones and rocks and weapons improvised from materials which were in the compound for construction purposes."

The Chinese prisoners were transferred to Cheju last summer when the U.N. Command broke up the huge compounds on Kojae.

U. S. Jets Downed 62 MIGs In September, Lost Only 7

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The Air Force announced today that only seven American jets were shot down in the furious September air battles that cost the Reds at least 62 MIG15s.

The announcement came soon after the Allies opened another month of air blows with a massive B29 attack against a sprawling chemical plant only 40 yards from the Manchurian border. An armada of 48 Superforts dropped about 425 tons of high explosives on the Namsan plant in one of the biggest B29 raids of the war.

The Air Force said the Reds threw up "meagre to moderate" ground fire. All B29s returned safely.

Brightly colored pennants fluttered on the Western Front as Chinese Communists celebrated the third anniversary of the founding of their Red regime. The Reds added a gruesome touch by displaying the body of a dead American soldier before one forward position.

Savage close-in fighting flared on the Central Front west of the Pukhan River when a company of Chinese tried to capture an Allied hill position.

The hand-to-hand fighting lasted nearly two hours. U.N. troops, stood their ground and forced the Chinese back with bayonets, grenades and fists.

The U.S. Eighth Army said the Reds lost 3,171 men killed, wounded and captured last week in ground fighting.

New Revised Bible Dedicated At Special Service On Tuesday

Salem people were introduced to the new Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible at a dedication service Tuesday evening in the First Methodist Church.

The speaker, Rev. E. S. Scott of the Christian Church explained that the Salem observance, with its large city-wide and inter-church audience, was just one of 3,000 similar services set up for the United States, Canada, Hawaii and the Canal Zone.

Written with the purpose of "making the scriptures come alive, the new version does not match the beauty of words found in the King James Version, the speaker declared. He reminded his audience that the King James Version was not accepted until many years after publication and that the new version may not be accepted at once by all peoples.

The minister declared that three things stand in the way of making the Bible a living issue in our lives: (1) Its contents are little known; (2) it is not looked on as a tool to be used, but an object to be dusted, and (3) because we live in an age of specialization we let the minister (the specialist in religion) read our Bible for us.

Rev. Harold Winn, president of the Salem Ministerial Association and Friends pastor, welcomed the audience. Assisting him in the service were Rev. R. J. Hunter, Baptist minister, and Rev. C. Clare Davis, Methodist pastor.

Five Bibles were presented to key people in the community. Those selected from Salem were Mayor Harry M. Vincent, Miss Pearl Walker, church editor at the Salem News for many years, Henry Ross of the Gideon Society, High School Principal Beman Ludwig, and Floyd McKee, prominent Protestant layman.

John Rebenack, librarian at the Salem Public Library, accepted a new Bible for the library.

The Methodist Choir, directed by Thomas Crothers, sang "Hark, Hark, My Soul." Soloists for the number were Miss Mary Jane Taffan and Orein Naragon. Mrs. Loren Early sang "Now the Day Is Over."

Mahoning Farm Tour Arranged

Farmers Invited To Station Oct. 9

Supervisors of the Mahoning Soil Conservation District, officers of the County Production and Marketing Administration and the County Extension Service join with Cecil Edwards, manager of the Mahoning County Experiment Farm in inviting farmers of the county to visit the farm Thursday afternoon, Oct. 9, to see what progress is being made in developing the soil conservation and crops program at the farm.

The program will start at 1 when the various soils and crops experiments will be outlined by Mr. Edwards and representatives of the Ohio Experiment Station.

A tour of the farm will start about 1:30. Some of the things which the group will see on the tour will be the corn test plots consisting of about 30 varieties, fertilization plots, meadow seedings, timothy varieties, diversion terraces and Laidlaw clover poultry pastures. The old pasture field which was plowed, bedded, limed, fertilized and sowed to wheat last fall will be visited and studied. The seedings of Reed canarygrass, Birdsfoot Trefoil and the improved Blue Grass in Birdsfoot Trefoil seedings will be inspected. The forest management program in the farm wood lot will be discussed.

The tour of the farm is expected to provide the answers to a lot of questions farmers have been asking about some of the newer practices to control soil erosion and about the various grasses for seeding permanent pastures.

Store's Celebration To Last Full Month

The R. S. McCulloch Co., whose modern store on downtown E. State St. is the result of a steady business growth, is observing its 40th birthday celebration.

It was in the fall of 1912 when Robert S. McCulloch, Sr., with an avowed faith in Salem's future, bought out the A. W. Jones Co. and began his first store in the Pioneer Building.

By 1920 the original quarters were found to be inadequate and Mr. McCulloch purchased his present building from the Salem Wall Paper & Carpet Co.

An extensive remodeling program was completed four years ago and the store today is among the city's finest. From its beginning in 1912 with a few employees, McCulloch's has grown to an establishment employing around 50 people.

Mr. McCulloch is now assisted in management by his son, Robert McCulloch, Jr., who serves as vice president, and Water Null, secretary-treasurer.

Special sales events for the public are a part of the McCulloch anniversary program.

Veteran Aerialist Falls To Death

PORTSMOUTH, O. (AP) — Jackie Teeter thrilled audiences for 16 years with her high pole act, twisting and turning more than 100 feet high in the air.

Only a slender rope kept her from hurtling to the ground as she put on her act at countless fairs and other events.

She always had a nice curtsy for the customers at the end.

The 42-year-old performer from Martinsville, Ind., who books her own act, was scheduled for a week of nightly performances at an outdoor theater at Lucasville, 10 miles north of here.

She arrived in town Sunday and started final testing of her apparatus Monday. She had played at a series of fairs in Canada.

There was no audience, only Roy Lewis, manager of the outdoor theater, as she started to climb. Jackie was 15 feet from the top of the 147-foot pole. Suddenly she slipped and fell.

Rushed to a doctor's office, she was still breathing. She died before oxygen the doctor ordered could be brought to her.

Doctors Told To Be Wary Of Appraising Powers Of Drugs

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Doctors should be wary of appraising the powers of the wonder-drugs in the way grandma measured the success of onion poultices, a Washington physician says.

Declaring that medical practitioners are all too prone to credit a wonder-drug like penicillin with the cure when a patient treated with such a drug for a poorly defined ailment—especially of the nose and throat—gets well, Dr. John A. Washington told the annual Scientific Assembly of the District of Columbia Medical Society late yesterday.

"Like grandmothers with onion poultices we credit our success to the medicine in use at the time the temperature drops."

The George Washington University pediatrician said that while the antibiotic wonder-drugs are valuable foes of certain specific infections, there are others against which the drugs have no power at all—and that some of these ailments are subject to spontaneous recovery.

He made the remarks in cautioning doctors against "unnecessary" use of the antibiotics lest they:

(1) Needlessly expose a patient to the risk of some kind of a reaction from the drug; (2) subject a family to unnecessary expense for the drugs; (3) cause mothers to waken needlessly at all hours of the night to give the drug to a sick child; and (4) build up fears in a child of a "needle-wielding doctor."

Columbiana

Rotarians Hold Pie Jamboree

Area Teachers Feted By Kiwanis Club

COLUMBIANA — Fourteen clubs were represented by 115 Rotarians at the third annual chicken pie jamboree of the Columbiana club at Valley Golf Club, Monday evening.

Clubs represented besides the host were Alliance, Bedford, East Liverpool, Mantua, Minerva, Salem, Sebring, Warren, Youngstown, Malvern, and three Pennsylvania clubs, New Wilmington, Bessemer and Carmichael. Included among those present were three past district governors, Hiram McGrath of Mansfield, former member of the Columbiana club; Alva Gluck of Minerva, and Harold Burns of New Wilmington.

C. Brainerd Metheny, Pittsburgh life insurance underwriter, was presented as the speaker by Dr. K. P. Murphy, past president of the Columbiana club. Mr. Metheny's talk was in the nature of a whimsical philosophy, supplemented by a bag of magic tricks. The past district champion Rotary male quartet of the Columbiana club, Dr. Murphy, A. L. Wells, Charles Adams and Elmer Detweiler, Jr., sang two selections.

Michael Swinehart, chairman of the committee on inter-club relations of the Columbiana club, arranged the program.

NEARLY 100, including 41 teachers of the Columbiana and Fairfield Centralized Schools, were present at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club at Heck's Restaurant Monday evening, when the teachers were guests of the club. Of 30 Columbiana teachers, 23 were present, and of 19 Fairfield teachers, 18 were present. It was the club's second annual teacher recognition night.

Lieut.-Gov. R. J. Barrow of the 15th Ohio division of Kiwanis, member of the Columbiana club, spoke on the importance of getting out the vote at the coming election, and urged support of the Kiwanis project, "Join the Ballot Battalion." The club is distributing the illuminated placards to appear on automobile bumpers in support of the project.

Mr. Barrow, who graduated from Columbiana High School in 1917, gave some reminiscences of school days in the old school building.

TEACHERS PRESENT were introduced by Superintendent D. W. Bailey of Columbiana, and Superintendent T. V. Utterback of Fairfield School. Mr. Bailey spoke of the increased enrollment, especially in the lower grades, in the Columbiana schools, which has necessitated hiring more teaching help.

Dick Sponseller, a son of the late Leo Sponseller, a former president of the club, was received as a new member.

Next week the club will have its annual election of officers. Malcolm Heed of Parma, past district governor, will be the speaker.

The Booster Club will have its October meeting in the High School building at 8 p.m. Wednesday, having changed its meeting night from the second to the first Wednesday of every month. Reports on the progress of the membership drive will be heard tonight.

THE WOMEN'S Bible class will be host for the officers' training school of the W.S.C.S. in the Methodist church tomorrow at 8 p.m., to which all women of the church are invited. Dinner reservations for the county meeting of the W.S.C.S. in the church at East Palestine next Wednesday, beginning at 10 a.m., must be made with Mrs. Louise Gromley, phone 4290, not later than today.

Pandora Rebekah Lodge will have its meeting in the High School building again at 8 p.m. next Monday.

Mothers of children in the kindergarten department of the Columbiana schools met in the High School building Monday evening and effected the annual reorganization by electing these officers: Mrs. G. W. Gloss, president; Mrs. Glenn Shastene, vice president; Mrs. Richard Winegard, secretary-treasurer. The club starts with 28 members. More will be enlisted at the next meeting, Wednesday, Oct. 15, the club having fixed the third Wednesday of every month as the regular time of meeting.

She is comforted by Walter Eldot, Duluth newspaper reporter. The fire, cause of which was not learned, broke out in the building after Mrs. Anderson, mother of four, drove to nearby Moose Lake, Minn., to meet her husband who was rejoining his family after working in Duluth. The house was reduced to waist-high ruins in less than an hour.

You Play To Win

After nearly everything else has been said about baseball and its annual October climax in the World Series, one thing still needs saying over and over again.

Baseball is a favorite American sport because it is played in a way typical of a basic American feeling toward all forms of endeavor. In this country, you play to win.

Otherwise, you are merely going through the motions.

The only thing that could ruin professional baseball would be a suspicion that the contestants were not playing to win.

That is why the "Black Sox" scandal of a generation ago marked a turning point in the game.

Sometimes during the ins and outs of the baseball season it seems to the fans as though players and managers should be more lenient and sportsmanlike.

The same fans, however, have kind words when the season's over for the winners; no others need apply.

That's baseball. It's America.

There is no sympathy in this country for second-raters, which explains more than the popularity of pennant winners in baseball.

Grandma Is Big Business

There is something a little disillusioning to the discovery that Grandma Moses now is big business with incorporation and everything that goes with success.

Picturing her in her farm kitchen rocking chair happily painting those rural scenes which have so endeared her to the American public, it comes as something of a shock to know that she really is Grandma Moses Properties, Inc. with offices at 46 W. 57th St., New York City.

The corporation has just been formed to handle her contracts and distribute her paintings.

The story of Grandma Moses is one of those chapters in the American scene which outdo fiction.

Born in a New York village in 1860 she married, bore 11 children before her husband died in 1887 and spent the next 40 years rearing her family.

Then, after she was past 70 she found time on her hands and turned to painting. With no formal training, her landscapes were seen only by neighbors until 1938 when a druggist in nearby Hossick Falls placed some in his store.

They were seen by art lovers and almost immediately Grandma Moses was hailed as the country's greatest painter of folk art. Since then her pictures have been shown in leading art galleries, they are in demand for Christmas cards and each new painting finds buyers bidding for it.

Now at 92, hale and hearty, Grandma Moses becomes a corporation.

Statistics show that people are living longer and that productive years are being extended in a way that leads statisticians to try to figure out what it means in the world of economics. Grandma Moses is the most striking example of what may be a problem to upset all the figuring.

Privilege Of High Office

Adlai Stevenson's half-million-dollar income during the last decade made it possible for him to serve in public office without hardship.

His government salary was dwarfed on all occasions by his income from investments. Gov. Stevenson's income tax alone—$211,980—is equal to the lifetime earnings of a $5,000 a-year earner.

Thanks to those who made the money which made those investments possible Adlai Stevenson is well-heeled.

Not every man who aspires to the privilege of high office is in the same fortunate situation. The net result of all this confessing about money which was set off by the success of Richard Nixon's clean-breast statement is to close a comparison between poor little rich boys and poor little poor boys.

The poor boys, as Nixon pointed out, cannot live on their public incomes, if they must pay all their political expenses along with all their personal expenses. They must do some artful dodging somewhere.

But the rich boys, if they choose, can do it without dodging.

They can afford the privilege of high office; they don't need to scramble for money.

The poor boys must do some scrambling. It was always thus.

There now will be a demand to know how much Dwight Eisenhower, born and raised a poor boy, has been able to pile up in the storehouse. The general may as well tell all, to wind up this whole silly business of rediscovering the obvious fact that it takes money to spend money.

There is no moral issue in the ability of poor little rich boys to spend money effortlessly. That is a way of life which was going strong long before the presidential campaign of 1862.

There really isn't any use in thinking there isn't any use.

Truman, Acheson Mess

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Candidates Fail To Touch Biggest Issue

The biggest issue in the campaign has hardly been touched on in the major speeches of the candidates. The controversy over special campaign funds—stated by the "left wing"—is a smokescreen designed to divert public attention from the truly important issue which involves the responsibility of the Truman-Acheson administration for the bloodshed in Korea, where more than 100,000 American boys have been killed or wounded in a war that has lasted more than two years.

General Eisenhower has charged that Secretary of State Acheson, by his speech of January 1950, virtually invited Communist aggression in Korea. The secretary in that speech outlined our "defense perimeter" as including only the Philippines, Japan and the Aleutian islands of Alaska. This told Russia the United States itself wouldn't defend Korea. Mr. Acheson accuses General Eisenhower of omitting reference, however, to the second part of the 1950 speech in which the secretary said he didn't mean to imply that Korea would be left defenseless. The Acheson 1950 speech said on this point:

"SHOULD SUCH an armed attack occur—one hesitates to say where such an attack could come from—the initial reliance must be on the people attacked to resist it and then upon the commitments of the entire civilized world under the charter of the United Nations which so far has not proved a weak reed to lean on by any people who are determined to protect their independence against outside aggression."

But General Eisenhower was charitable in omitting reference to that particular paragraph because it contains a far worse indictment of the Truman-Acheson administration than the announcement of the limited "defense perimeter." For the secretary of state was declaring that the U. N.—which everybody knew had a Security Council that could be paralyzed from taking action by the single veto of Soviet Russia—was going to resist aggression. That wasn't important to the Communists, who for reasons of their own decided to start aggression in Korea, knowing full well that, even if the United Nations did resist, they didn't have the forces at hand to bring about a decision.

If the secretary of state, after a withdrawal of American forces from the Far East, was relying on the U. N. to protect that area, what steps, if any, did he take in January 1950 to mobilize the members of the United Nations under the "commitments" to which he refers? None whatever. In fact, the United States government itself defended Korea because the Joint Chiefs of Staff, including General Eisenhower, at the time was told that it wasn't American diplomatic policy to protect Korea but that it was up to the U. N.

THE REPUBLICAN nominee for the presidency, who was then chief of staff of the army, recommended in 1949 against defense of Korea when the question was put to the Joint Chiefs. It is important to note what the question was—it was asked whether, in the event of general war, Korea should be defended. The answer, of course, was then and still is negative. If a world war broke out tomorrow, Korea couldn't be defended, because the military forces and supplies now going there would be more urgently needed elsewhere.

But when the Joint Chiefs of Staff render their advice on a military question, why does the secretary of state feel obligated to make such military information public? Since when does the United States government tell potential enemies what it will or will not defend? Some of the Democratic speakers have said with vehemence that the advice not to defend Korea, as announced by Secretary Acheson, was a "military decision." But since when does the "military" make decisions on foreign policy? The whole MacArthur controversy made clear that the civilian authority accepts and wants to take full responsibility for making foreign policy.

There is a further phase to the colossal blunder which the administration made. It relates to the fact that President Truman took full responsibility for cutting the budget of the military prior to Korea. As a consequence, by June 1950 the Navy was in large part put "in mothballs," there were no heavy-bomber forces and no marines in the Far East, and no ships to carry an expeditionary force from Japan while occupation troops, with equipment only for a peacetime job, were on duty there.

UNDER THESE circumstances, because neither the United States nor its allies had done anything from January till June 1950, when the Korean aggression came, the United States was required to bear the full brunt of the burden. That's the tragic mistake of our times. American leadership, insofar as getting help from the allies is concerned, has since failed. More than 100,000 boys have shed their blood.

It was essential, of course, to resist aggression when it came in June 1950, but the President and secretary of state, by their previous policies and open announcements of our "defense perimeter" as well as the withdrawal of our naval forces from the Far East for budgetary reasons, made things easy for the aggressor.

More than 6,000 American boys have been killed and more than 30,000 Americans have been wounded since the so-called "truce" began in June 1951. The Communists have successfully prevented the United Nations from applying maximum force while a bleeding war of attrition goes on indefinitely.

About 40,000 to 50,000 American boys are being drafted every month. Governor Stevenson says it was a mistake to have crossed the 38th parallel in October 1950, which means that, since the 38th parallel is admittedly no line of defense, American boys would have had to stand up against Communist hordes without a chance to pursue the enemy and repel his aggression.

That's the war mess of Truman and Acheson, and the further mess if Stevenson's announced policy ever goes into effect.

CIA And Politics

By ARTHUR EDSON (For JAMES MARLOW)

WASHINGTON (AP)—It looks as if the nation's most secret organization, the Central Intelligence Agency, may have been a one-day political sensation.

The CIA is the organization on which the safety of this nation depends. Its awesome chore: finding out precisely what any potential enemies are up to.

The CIA became involved in politics because of something its director, Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, said at the tail end of his testimony in a deposition hearing in Sen. Joseph McCarthy's two-million-dollar libel-slander suit against Sen. William Benton.

Smith said he believes Communists have worked their way into every security agency, including his own. Later, he qualified his remarks by saying:

"They're (the Communists) so clever you've got to proceed on the assumption they can infiltrate you, and that's what we do."

But never, he said, has a Communist been found in the CIA.

The Republicans, who have maintained all along that the administration has been lax in its attitude toward Communists, reacted quickly.

Arthur E. Summerfield, Republican national chairman, said: "Shocking revelation . . . incredible looseness."

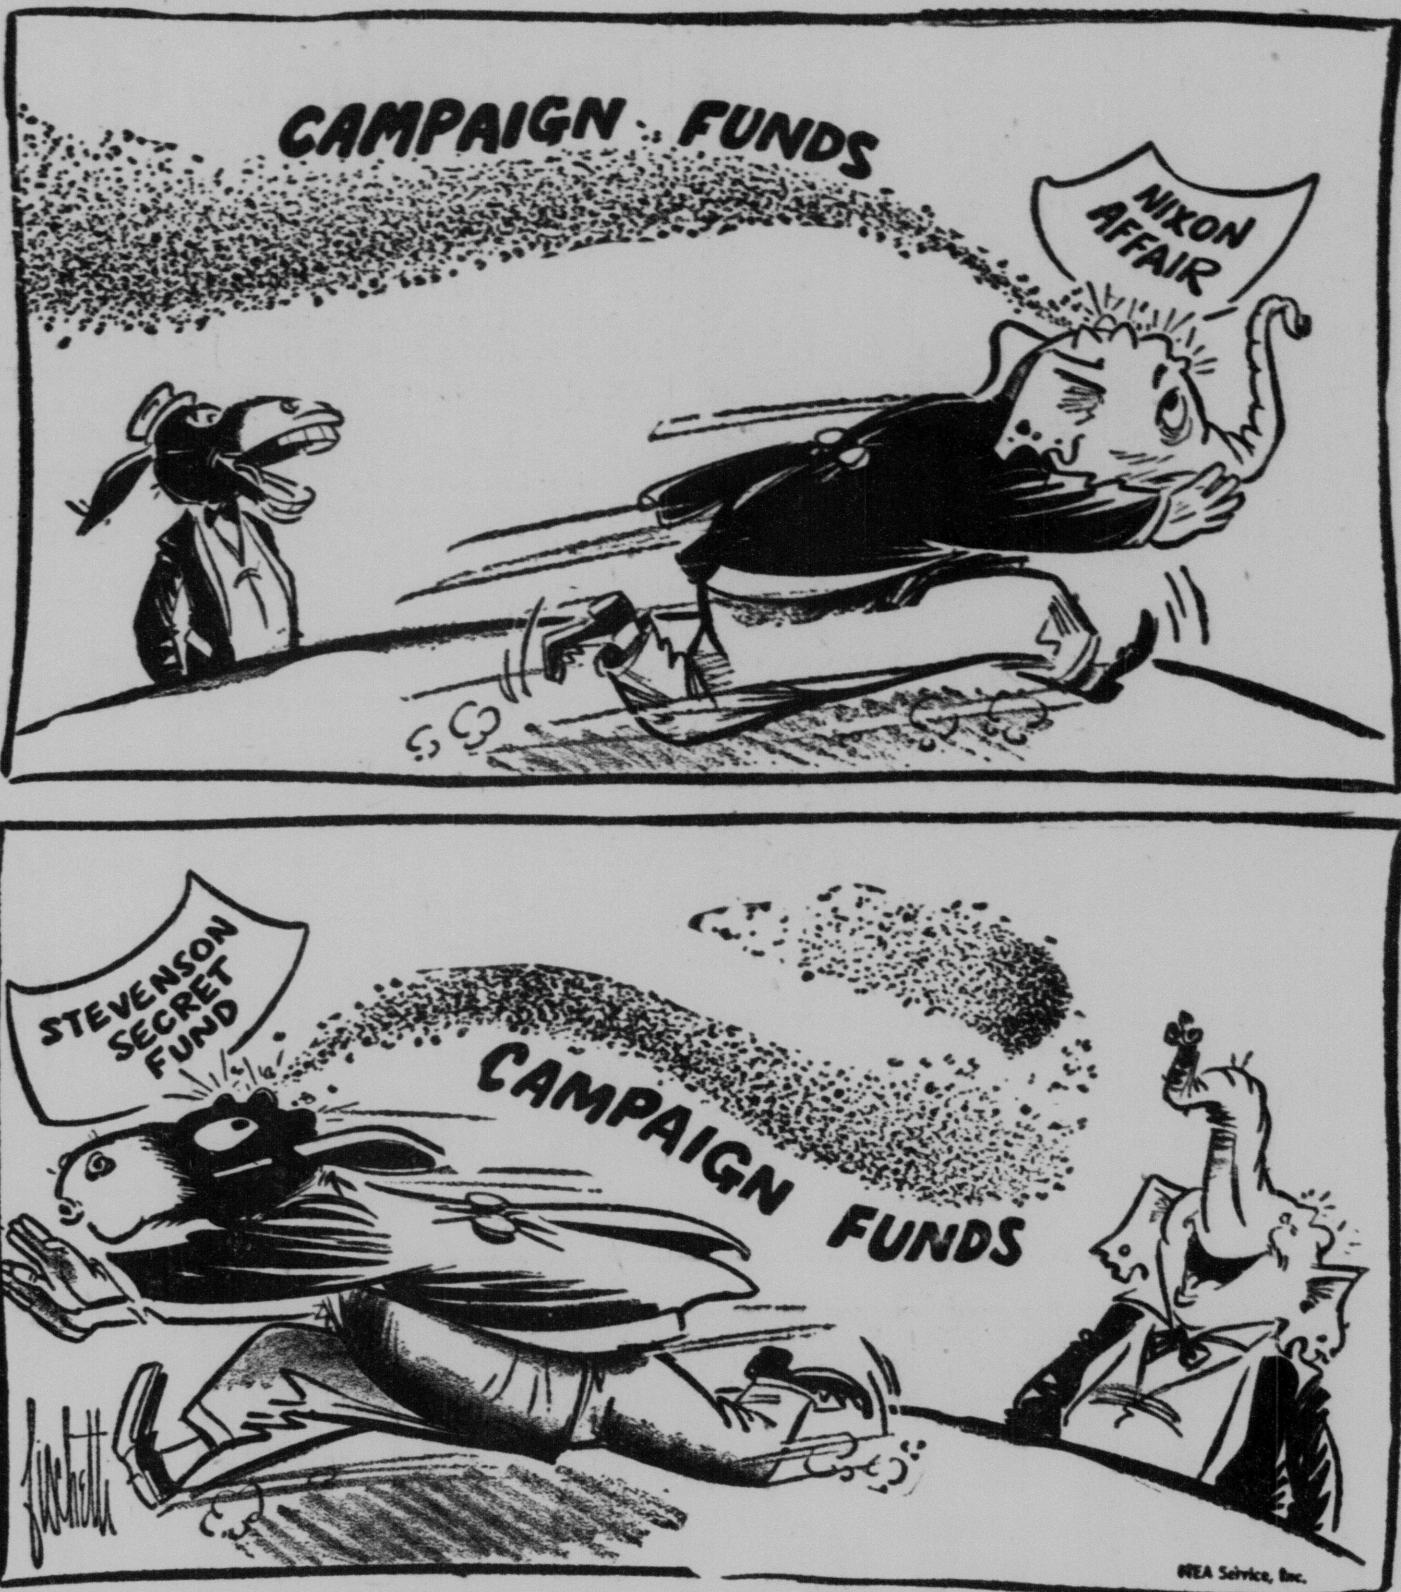

But the Democrats, as represented by their presidential nominee, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, counseled against injecting the CIA into politics.

That was after Smith had amplified his original remarks by explaining that it was necessary for

Communists In U. S. Government

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Since 1933, when the United States recognized Soviet Russia, the infiltration into our government by Communist agents and emissaries has been a major political issue. There is no hindsight about this: A voluminous, factual attack has been constant since 1917 when the bolsheviks took over Russia.

The year following recognition, the Harold Ware cell (1934) was organized in Washington, consisting of bright young men, mostly from the Harvard law school, whose object it was to gain important positions affecting government policy on behalf of Soviet Russia and international communism. They found it easy to enter the AAA in the Department of Agriculture, then presided over by Henry Wallace. (I must say, in justice, that when Wallace discovered the nature of this cabal, he booted the gang out of his department.)

SUBSEQUENTLY, this Harold Ware group found its way from the AAA into other government activities, to the National Labor Relations Board, the Treasury, the State Department, etc. Lee Pressman, for instance, wrote the Wagner act, which established the National Labor Relations Board of which Nathan Witt became secretary and practically the head man. Witt's associate in communist activity, Lee Pressman, became counsel for the newly formed C.I.O. Pressman and Witt worked together, so that a government agency dealing with labor matters and a national labor union favored by that agency were joined together through the cooperation of two communists.

The La Follette committee was loaded with members of the Harold Ware cell who served as investigators, researchers and counsel. This committee so slanted an investigation as to provide the Communists with the data they required for their propaganda against American capitalism.

Other members of this group, because of their abilities, such as Alger Hiss, Henry Collins, Charles Kramer, Harry Dexter White, came to the fore and were perfect exposed.

The administration cannot claim that it was without data on the subject. It has always had the reports of the FBI, an agency that from the first recognized the communist menace. Neither President Roosevelt nor President Truman availed himself fully of FBI facilities on this subject. To this must be added the intelligence reports of Army, Navy and State Departments prior to the Marshall-Acheson regime. Finally, there were many books, magazine and newspaper articles, some written by Communists, others by anti-Communists since 1848.

In 1939, Whittaker Chambers exposed espionage to Adolf Berle, who informed Dean Acheson and President Roosevelt of the accusation that Alger Hiss, already a high State Department official, was a Russian spy. Hiss was promoted to higher office subsequent to the accusation and was Roosevelt's Far Eastern expert at Yalta.

taken together have produced the pattern of Communist infiltration into the lives of our people.

The "Amerasia" case, involving a vast amount of classified secret documents (over 1700), taken from the files of military intelligence, naval intelligence, Bureau of Censorship, British intelligence, the OSS and the State Department, was one of the most brazen acts of espionage yet developed. On March 11, 1945, the "Amerasia" headquarters were searched and the documents found. Involved were Philip Jaffe, Kate Mitchell, Mark Gayn, John S. Service, Lieut. Andrew Roth and Emmanuel S. Larson.

AFTER ALGER HISS was convicted, it was impossible to disregard the "Amerasia" case. A Senatorial committee, headed by Senator Millard Tydings, was appointed to investigate. In particular, charges made by Senator Joe McCarthy on Communist infiltration into the State Department. At first, Senator Tydings seemed to be anxious to do a thorough job. However, political exigencies drove him to the whitewash pail. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. said of the Tydings committee, of which he was a member:

"The investigation must be set down as superficial and inconclusive. The proceedings often lacked impartiality; the atmosphere was too often not that of seeking to ascertain the truth. The subcommittee's record is a tangle of loose threads, of witnesses who were not subpoenaed, of leads which were not followed up."

Much more can be written in recapitulation, but there is no space here, except to say that under both President Roosevelt and President Truman, Communists flourished in our government.

The Doctor Answers

Some salesmen apparently stop at nothing to sell their wares. If the firms for which they work are really responsible, they should take steps to stop such practices.

Q—A stainless-steel salesman recently conducted a test in our home with an aluminum pan and one of his own products. He placed a teaspoonful of baking soda in each pan, filled with approximately one cup of water. The solution was then allowed to come to a full boil for five minutes.

At the end of that period, we tasted the solution from each pan and found the solution from the aluminum pan to be very bitter, while the other solution had a sweet taste.

The salesman claims that using aluminum can cause cancer, arthritis and peptic ulcers, and that many physicians after diagnosing such cases recommend changing from aluminum to stainless steel pans. What do you think about this?—Mr. and Mrs. N. S.

A—I think the man who called on you was trying to make a sale. He does not know what he is talking about when he says aluminum is the cause of cancer, arthritis and peptic ulcer.

The possibility of aluminum utensils importing injurious agents to the foods cooked in them has been extensively investigated and the persistent rumor to the effect that cooking in aluminum pans is harmful has no foundation in scientific evidence.

The salesman's experiment has been repeated with one teaspoonful of baking soda plus one cup of water in each pan, brought to a boil and boiled for five minutes.

The solution from both pans was tasted by several persons, who agreed that they thought that the water from the stainless steel pan was the more bitter, probably because more water had evaporated from this pan and had resulted in a greater concentration of the baking soda.

Q—What is the purpose of electric treatments and of what aid are they in treating a person who is emotionally unstable and seems to be suffering from an extreme state of anxiety?—S. H. T.

A—I presume this question refers to electric shock therapy. The aim of this form of treatment is to improve the mental processes in those suffering from various kinds of mental disease. In many, but not all, cases the results have been favorable.

Q—My girl is 16 years old, and has alopecia areata. What can we do to stop her hair from falling and restore new hair?—Mrs. G. C.

A—Alopecia areata, or baldness in spots, is a condition in which the hair over the scalp falls out completely, usually in round spots from the size of a dime to that of a 50-cent piece. Occasionally all the hair falls out.

Book Of The Ages

In an era of new cocktails, new night clubs, new crime techniques, whodunits and a revision of just about everything that influences the life and customs of human beings, there is something sensational in the development that this week the world gets two "new" (or revised) Bibles.

Both the Protestants and the Roman Catholic church have made the announcement. The first and immediate effect is that the Good Book makes the newspaper headlines in a big way and gets a publicity break usually reserved for the books that in importance rate with the Bible about the way a leak in a kitchen pipe compares with the river of life.

The Bible has more vitamins, does more for your health, keeps people more fit and gives more folks greater comfort than all the heavily advertised products on earth, and we are glad to see it get some big-time advertising. The Book of the Ages becomes a Book of the Month.

Ninety-one scholars have worked 15 years modernizing the King James version for the Protestant Churches of Christ in America, and many bishops of the Roman Catholic church have spent years making translations of their Bible from the original Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek. The best news in years is that two great faiths have been putting so much time and effort into the Bible and it should stir the parishioners into a little more interest than they have been showing lately.

Hemingway, Steinbeck and the others are good, but they are minor league writers compared with Isaiah, Solomon, David, Job, Matthew, Paul and John. No writer has ever eclipsed the Twenty-third Psalm. There was a time when the Bible was on every living room table and rated as Guide Book Number One. It looks like it now has a chance to get back there. It should be a Book of the Month Club selection, since it has always been conceded by experts to be the Book of the Ages.

Nobody was shy about being seen with it, families felt comfortable as beautiful passages helped in family prayers and you weren't called corny by the sophisticated if you wrote about it. But for too many years it hasn't been considered "smart" reading by some people. This despite the fact there has never been a day when it wasn't a best seller, topping all others in the grand totals. The churchmen have worked hard on the new versions, striving to simplify and clarify the texts and the messages. Personally we could do with the old versions. Like the Model T, it got you there when the roads were rougher and the going harder. Folks didn't expect the smooth ride they get these days anyhow, and a lot of 'em will prefer the Good Book in the old-fashioned rugged form. It's difficult to make the majesty of great beauty more beautiful.

The Bible, it seems to us, needs less changing than anything on earth. It's the readers who require alterations. People need revising. They are harder to understand than the Good Book ever was. If somebody can revise the American living room so it will hold the Family Bible in the former place of prominence and "revise" the furniture so a man will feel as comfortable reading it in a group as he does watching video, U. N. may be able to pack up and quit work very soon. Here's hoping!

FRED BRANDA, 40 years with Ringling, says in his book, "The Big Top," that lions are not crazed by the smell of blood and will lick it off your hand. . . (Yours, understand, not ours) . . . The rodeo is on in New York and, as a subway user, we love to attend and see the comparative comfort in which a cowboy rides a wild horse. . . Charlie Kittering of General Motors says the time will come when on an acre of land a man can grow his own automobile fuel. . . The problem just now is to determine the "proper crop. . . (We hope we never have to use high test garbage. . . "Junior, go out in the garden and pick me an auto trip!" . . . If the engine skips it can mean you have a radish in the fuel line, we suppose.

"Mr. Pickwick" is the treat of the theatrical season if you love the inimitable characters of Dickens. . . "Panting" won a race at $63.90 the other day, leaving us breathless. . . Walter Winchell returns to radio and doubles on video Oct. 5, and is back in his old-time form. . . Adlai Stevenson made a speech on the New Haven Green last week and it was not exactly strange territory to him. . . He used to take trips to the Elm City when he was at Choate School and many a time he passed the Green with a contingent of embattled Princeton men bound for the Yale Bowl. . . Uta Hagen, last seen in Joan of Arc, does an amazing switch to a Hollywood toughie in her new play, "In Any Language," which got a big hand at the out-of-town opening. . . Nita Naldi, once a top star in silent movies, is in the cast. . . Jimmy Byrnes, lifelong Democrat, has come out for Eisenhower. . . Want an "I Like Ike" button, guv'nor?

Quakers Grooming For Saturday Game Against Timken

Hold Scrimmage With Sebring Wisconsin, Ohio State Favored

Salem High School Football Coach Ben Barrett has been working his victoryless Quakers hard this week in preparation for Saturday evening's clash with the Canton Timken Trojans in the second of a doubleheader program at Fawcett Stadium.

Weak both offensively and defensively at the guard positions last week, the Salem coach spent much time with his guards Monday evening. Barrett spent most of the time trying to improve the speed and blocks of the next-to-center gridders and believes they will show improvement in Saturday's contest.

Co-captain Don McCormick, Wayne Ickes, Bob Dornencetti, Harold Garlock and Charlie Harris worked out at the positions Monday. Bill Megert, biggest player on the squad at 235 pounds, also saw some action at the guard position.

McCormick and Ickes look best at the spots but Barrett indicated there may be a change in the lineup by the end of the week.

Tuesday night the Quakers held scrimmage sessions with Coach Chet Tetlow's Sebring Trojans at Reilly Stadium and the two guards showed improvement defensively but still need some grooming on offense.

SEBRING, vastly improved since Salem's initial scrimmage against them, failed to cross the goal line against the Quakers while the Barrettmen pushed several TD's across from mid-field.

Joe Hrovatic, quarterback, threw numerous passes during the scrimmage and showed great improvement. The senior was hitting Bill Backs Nelson Mellinger and Bill Crookston with great accuracy and more aerials may be tossed against the Timken Trojans Saturday.

Coach Barrett worked with his defensive backfield to sharpen its pass defense. Timken is noted for throwing numerous passes and the Salem mentor is preparing against it.

Salem injuries are slight and the Quakers will probably be in top shape by the weekend. Halfback George Mordew came up with a bad cold and has missed practices Monday and Tuesday but is expected to play Saturday. Another halfback, Joe Hajcak, injured his knee in Monday's intersquad scrimmage and may not be in uniform for the Timken contest.

Canton Lehman will meet Akron West in the opener of the doubleheader at 6:30 Saturday and the Salem-Timken contest will follow that game at 8:45.

Fans will be able to see two grid contests for the price of one, the first twin bill staged at Fawcett Stadium this year. Doubleheader games have been tried before at the stadium but have proved unsuccessful.

Salem fans will be seated on the south side of the stadium, nearest the newly erected Canton fieldhouse. Local followers had the north bleachers last season and at the preview game recently but will sit on the south side this week with fans from Akron West.

No reserved seats will be sold here for the south bleachers and only 1,000 seats will be reserved for fans on the north side. They will be sold at the gate.

TO CLOSE LIQUOR STORES

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Two more liquor agencies will be closed this month, William C. Bryant, state liquor director, said Tuesday. They are the agency in Masury, Trumbull County, operated by Paul Jurko, which had sales of $294,170 to Aug. 30 this year, and the one in Rossford, Wood County, which had sales of $192,880 for the same period. The Masury agency closes Friday and the one at Rossford, Oct. 30.

In 1891 two West Virginia University seniors collected $160 and bought 11 football uniforms. That's how the school got its start on the gridiron.

Wisconsin, Ohio State Favored

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Squinting into a cloudy crystal, the Ol' Swami makes another blind stab:

Wisconsin 21, Illinois 13—A rip-snorter, matching the Big Ten's two best fullbacks, Bill Tate vs the Badgers' Alan Ameche; and the passing wizardry of Illinois' Tom O'Connell vs the conference's newest quarterback star, Jim Halaska. . . . Against Marquette, Halaska hit 14 out of 21 shots for a school record of 237 yards. . . . But this time he will be faced with one of the best pass defenses in the nation, one that swiped 6 tosses from air minded Iowa State and permitted only four completions for 37 yards. . . . The big difference—Illinois cannot match the running of halfbacks Harland Carl, Jerry Witt and Tom Canny. . . .

Ohio State 20, Purdue 14—They say that freshman Howard Casady, who barreled to three Buckeye touchdowns against Indiana, hasn't cooled off yet. . . . This, plus the fact that the game is at Ohio State, may be enough to give coach Woody Hayes' split-T terrors their first win over Purdue since 1942. . . . But the Boilermakers will come out fighting mad after that tie with Penn State. . . . Flip a coin on this one. . . .

Indiana 14, Iowa 13—A sizzling scrap between a pair of have-nots and a meeting of the Big Ten's two new coaches, Bernie Crimmins of the Hoosiers and Forest Evashevski of the Hawkeyes. . . . Could go either way. . . .

California 27, Minnesota 14—Papay Waldorf leads the pride of the Pacific Coast against a team that always troubled him when he was in the Big Ten neighborhood. . . . The Gophers could throw a surprise, but it doesn't figure too close here. . . .

Michigan 20, Stanford 13—Here's one West Coast outfit that's going to get polished off. . . . Look for those Wolverines to bounce back strong after that 27-13 defeat by Michigan State. . . .

Texas 14, Notre Dame 13—The Irish are thinly spread this season, but they should be used to the heat they'll get in Texas after drilling in the Midwest this week. . . . You never can sell Notre Dame too short. . . . Unless it loses Johnny Lattner. . . .

Michigan State 27, Oregon State 7—The nation's top-rated team shouldn't find much trouble here, although there is bound to be a let down after the Michigan opener. . . .

Northwestern 33, Vanderbilt 13—The Commodores have 14 freshmen. . . . Enough said. . . .

Injuries Hurt Maryland Football Team

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—The Maryland football squad is hurting down deep.

A string of injuries is sapping the reserve strength and reducing platoon potency of the undefeated Terps, picked for No. 2 spot nationally in The Associated Press pre-season poll.

It isn't serious yet, but Maryland still has seven games to play. Already, three players coach Jim Tatum had counted on rather heavily are out for the season. Another will be absent against Clemson Saturday and two others will be below physical par if they do play.

The effect has been to cut deeply into a squad which Tatum said at the outset was lacking in reserves good enough to make up true platoons. Against Auburn last Saturday, Maryland used only 25 players.

Tatum lost one of his first string guards before fall practice started when John Guender was hurt in an auto accident.

John Bowersox recently came down with yellow jaundice. Tatum had figured he might be first string guard. Then another guard, Bill Maletzky, hurt a leg against Auburn and even if it does come around by Saturday he will miss a lot of practice this week.

To top it off, All-America quarterback candidate Jack Scarbath played the first two games with a badly bruised foot. It was so sore he wore sneakers at practice the past two weeks.

JUST WAIT UNTIL THAT FIRST GAME STARTS—Some of these smiling baseball figures won't be so happy after the World Series gets underway. World Series Tilts Filled With Thrills

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

NEW YORK—The World Series is almost as old as the hills. Yet there's nothing on the American sports scene that matches it for thrills.

Since its inception 49 years ago the World Series has brought out many heroes. Creaking veterans, substitutes, and even rookies, have supplied much drama over the years.

Who will be the hero or heroes of the current World Series? Your guess is as good as the next fellow's.

As a refresher here are some of the things that have made World Series history: Possibly the most unusual incident happened in the 1947 Series between the Yankees and the Dodgers. It was on a Friday afternoon in Brooklyn's Ebbets Field. Ninth inning, last game with Floyd (Bill) Bevens pitching a no-hitter for the Yankees, although he had issued 10 bases on balls.

MANAGER BURT SHOTTON put up the aging Cookie Lavagetto, now a Dodger coach, to pinch hit for a tired Eddie Stanky. Lavagetto not only broke up Bevens' no-hitter with a double that rattled off the right field wall but he won the game, 3-2, for the late Hugh Casey. Casey, who was to appear in six of the seven games, was the winning pitcher. He had made only one pitch, a double play ball to Tommy Henrich.

It was not the only year that Series history was written in Ebbets Field. In 1941, with Henrich missing a third strike, Catcher Mickey Owen missed Casey's pitch; Henrich reached first and the Yankees eventually won the game and the Series.

Possibly the greatest bit of Series pitching occurred back in 1905 when Christy Mathewson, a 31-game winner that year, shut out the Athletics in three games.

The great Walter Johnson had to wait until the twilight of his career to win a Series game. And he did it in relief in 1924 after having lost two starts. In 1926 old Grover Cleveland Alexander became a hero by fanning Tony Lazzeri with the bases loaded.

And in 1929, Connie Mack aroused the second guessers by starting Howard Ehmke in the opening game despite the fact that Ehmke had completed only two games all season. Ehmke won, 3-1, and fanned 13 batters. He never won another game in the majors. That was the Series in which the Cubs enjoyed an 8-0 advantage in 10 games. The A's came up with 10 runs in the seventh and won the game, 10-8.

In 1931 Pepper Martin, a 27-year-old rookie, stole everything but the umpires' chest protector as his daring base running led the Cardinals to victory over the Athletics. In 1932 it was Babe Ruth who pointed to the outfield in Chicago and then parked one of Charley Root's pitches in that vicinity for a home run.

In 1934 Cardinal outfielder Joe Medwick was escorted from the field by police as Detroit fans showered Ducky with fruit and vegetables.

Then in 1939 there was that snooze that Ernie Lombardi of Cincinnati took at home plate while an important run scored.

THE 1948 SERIES started out in typical fashion. It was featured by a rhubarb in which Cleveland Manager Lou Boudreau put to use his famous pickoff play. Bob Feller's toss to second came in hard but Umpire Bill Stewart called Phil Masi safe. Masi, a few minutes later, scored the only run of the game on a single by Tommy

The 1949 Series, too, began with a 1-0 victory with Allie Reynolds outdueling Don Newcombe on Henrich's ninth inning home run on a crumpled two-and-nothing pitch. In 1950 the pitching of Reynolds, Vic Raschi, Ed Lopat and Rookie Ed Ford limited the weak hitting Phillies to five runs as the Yankees swept the classic in four games.

The 1951 Series had a number of thrills but no outstanding hero. It featured Monte Irvin's steal of home, Phil Rizzuto's great fielding at shortstop, Gil McDougald's grand slam homer and Hank Bauer's great catch of a sinking line drive in right field for the final out against the Giants.

And so it goes.

THIS WILD SCENE occurred during the fourth game of the 1947 World Series between the Dodgers and Yankees in Ebbets Field. Eddie Miksis, who ran for Pete Reiser after he had walked as a pinch hitter, is shown jumping with joy after scoring with the winning run. Dodgers seem to be scurrying in all directions as Pee Wee Reese (No. 1) tries to congratulate Miksis. The winning run scored on Cookie Lavagetto's pinch double, the only hit the Dodgers made against Bill Bevens.

Eddie Oliver Again Tops County Scorers

Eddie Oliver, talent-loaded East Liverpool fullback, racked up 17 more points—two touchdowns and five placements—to stay out in front of Columbiana County football team scorers for the second consecutive week. Oliver now has tallied 48 points.

His five placements in last Friday's Potter rout of New Philadelphia not only made him the top kicker of the week but put him far ahead for three games with a total of 17 placements to his credit.

Fullback Joe Guido of Leetonia and Chuck Foster of Wellsville, both with six extra points, are nearest to Oliver in that department.

Guido maintained his position as second leading scorer with two touchdowns and three extra points last week to amass a total of 42, six behind Oliver.

Third again for the second consecutive week is Tony Conkle, East Palestine back, who chalked up two TD's last week to boost his collection of 33.

Clair Williams, the Potters' diminutive backfield star, moved into fourth place by virtue of a three-TD spurge last week with 24 markers.

End Jerry Wines of East Liverpool, Earl Hicks, Columbiana back, and Frank Carter and Bob Carney, Wellsville backs, are tied for fifth with 18 points.

Top county team in scoring is East Liverpool with 111, while Wellsville, held scoreless last week, is next with 60. Others are as follows: East Palestine, 59; Leetonia, 48; Columbiana, 44; Lisbon, 31 and Salem, 25.

Salem still ranks as the poorest defensively, with 65 points scored against it. Columbiana is next with 48 and Leetonia third with 39. Best on defense are the Lisbon Blue Devils with only 13 in the red.

Pirates' Kiner May Be Traded

Cubs, Braves Have Interest In Slugger

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralph Kiner, seven-time home run king of the National League, has been placed on the market to the highest bidder, The Associated Press learned today.

It also was learned that the Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves had shown interest in the Pittsburgh Pirate slugger but were balking at the "sky-scraping" figure put on him by Pittsburgh General Manager Branch Rickey.

"Sure, we're interested in Kiner," a Braves official said. "Why shouldn't we be? We're not the only team anxious to get him, either."

A Cub official said practically the same thing. "We'd like to have Kiner," the Chicago representative confessed. "He always hit well in Wrigley Field. We're willing to go pretty high for him, too. But from what I've heard, Rickey wants too much."

Neither official wished to be identified.

Kiner, who will be 30 years old Oct. 27, is ranked as one of the greatest sluggers baseball has ever known. The 6-foot-2 native of New Mexico has led or tied for the National League lead in home runs ever since he came up to the majors in 1946.

Hampered by illness during the first half of the season, Kiner got off to a slow start this year but closed fast to tie Hank Sauer of the Cubs for the homer leadership at 37. It was his lowest home run total in six years, but it gave him a lifetime figure of 294 round trippers in seven seasons. He batted .244.

One drawback to the sale of Kiner is his huge salary. The good-natured outfielder was paid $75,000 last year, second in the majors only to Stan Musial's $85,000 salary. It was a one-year pact.

Willie Pep Meets Savoie Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Willie Pep, trying to hit the road back to the featherweight title at the age of 30, will tangle with Canada's light-weight and welterweight champion, Armond Savoie, tonight at Chicago Stadium.

The nationally televised and broadcast 10-round bout will start at 10 p.m., EST.

Pier little Pep owns one of the greatest boxing records in history, being defeated only five times in 174 pro bouts since 1940.

Two of those defeats came in the last year. He was knocked out in the ninth round of Sept. 26, 1951, trying to regain his featherweight crown from Sandy Saddler. Last June 30, Pep was stopped in six by Tommy Collins.

Booster Club To Meet At 7:30 Thursday Night

The Salem Booster Club will hold its weekly meeting at 7:30 Thursday evening in the Memorial Building.

Plans to take the Salem High School football team to the Pitt-West Virginia game Oct. 25 will be discussed. Coach Ben Barrett will be on hand to show movies of the Salem-Youngstown Chaney contest played last Friday night.

President Jim Jackson urges all members to attend the meeting. Attendance at the meetings this year has been small and the officers hope for larger turnouts.

Red Wings Will Try To Even Series Tonight

ROCESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Left-hander Jackie Collum has the nod from Red Wing manager Harry Walker to take the mound tonight and try to even things up with Kansas City in the fourth baseball game of the Little World Series.

The Red Wings of the International League trail the American Association Kansas City Blues, two games to one. The rest of the best-of-seven series between the playoff winners will be played under lights here.

Eddie Erault, ace righthander, has been chosen by Blues pilot George Selkirk to start tonight.

The Blues broke the 1-1 series tie Monday night with a 6 to 2 win on their home grounds. Tuesday was reserved for traveling.

Michigan State, Ineligible For Rose Bowl, Eyes 1953 Season With Good Material

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Some of the dreamers among the Michigan State football followers are sniffing the heady scent of roses. They're looking forward to 1953, when the Michigan State Spartans finally will become official Big Ten football members and can enter the race for the Rose Bowl. They aren't eligible this year.

Michigan State, unbeaten last year and once - beaten in 1950, crumpled Michigan, 27-13, in Saturday's opener and thus retained No. 1 rating in this week's Associated Press football poll. The win was the Spartans' 16th in a row.

In conference play next year, Michigan State will meet Iowa, Minnesota, Indiana, Purdue, Ohio State and Michigan. The Spartans won't have to bump heads with either Illinois or Wisconsin, two of the perennial powers of the conference.

Although graduation will take its toll, Michigan State still figures to be pretty well loaded on the basis of early season play.

Halfbacks Don McAuliffe and Vince Pisano and fullbacks Wayne Benson and Dick Panin will be gone from the backfield.

But quarterback Tom Yewic will be a game - seasoned senior and you could already name the rest of the starting backfield from halfbacks LeRoy Bolden and Billy Wells and fullback Evan Stonac.

To provide depth, recruits could be drawn from the eager army of good-looking sophomores that have not been able to break into the lineup yet because of the crush of talent ahead of them.

A lot of good end material, both on the offense and defense, will be missing next year. Graduates will include offensive ends Paul Dekker and Doug Bobo and Ed Luke of the defensive crew.

End Ellis Duckett will still be around on the offensive, however, and Don Doroney will be on hand to anchor the defense.

The defensive backfield will lose some stalwarts with the graduation of Ed Timmerman, Doug Weaver, Leo Boyd, Ray Vogt and Johnny Wilson. Jim Ellis still has another year at safety.

The line won't be as hard hit as it was this year.

Add them all up, and coach Biggie Munn will lose 17 seniors who could definitely be classed as lettermen.

But he lost as many this year, and so far Michigan State doesn't seem to be hurting.

It may seem premature, but there is some excuse for the Spartan fans to be looking toward 1953 with rose-colored glasses.

RAMS UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT—Assistant coach Hampton Pool (center) takes over as head mentor of the Los Angeles Rams' professional football team after Joe Stydahar was fired by club president Dan Reeves. Stydahar, who gave the Rams two titles in two years as head coach, was dropped after the team lost four straight games, including a 37-7 drubbing from the Cleveland Browns. Pool is giving instructions to his two quarterbacks, Bob Waterfield (left) and Norm Van Brocklin.

With Today's Series Opener . . .

BROOKLYN (AP)—Last-minute quotes from the opposing pitchers in the opener of the World Series today at Ebbets Field:

Joe Black, Brooklyn—The way I feel right now it's just another ball game. The Yankees don't awe me at all. After watching them work out, I realized they were just another ball club. They're a good ball club, but the Dodgers seem to be a pretty good club, too.

Allie Reynolds, New York—I feel okay. I know that the series starts today. I believe we're up for the game. I know I am, and that's about it.

Out fielders Carl Furillo of the Yankees and Gene Woodling of the Yankees, each of whom is nursing a slight injury, are not worrying. Furillo's left hand is taped. "The only time I feel my pain is when I swing at one and miss it," said Carl. "But the bandage helps."

Woodling's groin injury seems to have healed and he said he felt "fine" when he lifted his bat.

Commissioner Ford Frick laid down a couple of rules to keep the games going at a brisk pace:

1. No more than four men to gather around the pitchers' mound when the hurler is in distress.
2. The batter must run toward first base immediately after a dropped third strike. If he doesn't he's out.

Latest line had the odds on the Yanks to take the series, 8-9. Translated to man-to-man betting, a Yank supporter has to give 9-5 while a Dodger fan can get 8-5.

Dodger Reliever Faces Reynolds

Yankees Expected To Win 4th Crown

BROOKLYN (AP)—The key game of the 1952 World Series begins at 1 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, today at Ebbets Field, bandbox park of the Brooklyn Dodgers, with Joe Black, sensational rookie relief artist of the National League champions, giving his all against Allie Reynolds, the kingfish of the Yankee curving corps.

Never in the history of baseball did a first-year pitcher carry a more appalling burden than that assigned to Black.

He knew when he went to the hill that his team's chances of winning a world championship, or even of giving the famed Bombers a lengthy wrestle, were believed by the experts to rest upon his ability to turn back the Yanks today.

The consensus of the critics was that the Yankees would win their fourth straight crown in five or six games.

Only the possibility that Black, a righthander of impeccable control, might throttle the champions today and perhaps offer valuable assistance later on kept many prophets from picking the American Leaguers to wrap it up in four straight.

It was a throat-catching spot for a rookie to find himself in. Only last April, after a series of poor exhibitions, the husky Negro hurler was at the absolute bottom of the Brooklyn mound staff and he barely escaped being shipped back to the minors. Manager Chuck Dressen shudders now at the thought.

Though he eventually proved his merit in relief roles and established himself without argument the most valuable single player in either league, the rookie never started a big league game in his life until the fog end of the season.

He went the distance easily, sat the Boston Braves down with three hits and won his 15th victory in assuring the Dodgers at least a tie for the flag. In a succeeding start he was knocked out in the fifth inning.

Beyond Black, nobody can predict with any confidence what any Brooklyn thrower will do on a given day. Dressen sums up his series pitching strategy thus:

"I'm starting Black, and from there on I'll use two or three pitchers—or four or five. The record shows we've done pretty good that way."

The irony of the situation is obvious. Almost as far back as one can remember, it has been axiomatic that the National League goes into the fall play off with the finer pitching, the American League with the greater power at the plate.

Now the National finally comes up with a club which slugs at least on even terms with the Yankees, yet cannot summon three curvers who appear to compare with Reynolds, Vic Raschi and Eddie Lopat.

Outside the pitching, the experts have had much difficulty splitting the two teams apart. Both are solid clubs, loaded with hitting and fielding talent right from the plate to the last outfielder.

The Yankees are conceded to be slightly the faster team, but the Dodgers pack the greater home run threat. Their hitting and fielding averages are so closely matched that no conclusion whatever may be drawn from a comparison.

Browns Begin Preparation For Steelers Saturday Night

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns, once again looking like the mighty crew that won five straight pro football crowns, returned to practice today after 48 hours rest.

Although it meant having just two days of solid work before meeting the Steelers at Pittsburgh Saturday night, coach Paul Brown told the club to take off Monday and Tuesday.

"We paid a big price" to wallop Los Angeles, he said, "and I think we're better off all around with a couple of days of relaxation."

The Browns went all the way out for Sunday's 37-7 victory over the Rams. They had pointed towards that game for nine months—ever since the Rams trimmed them in last season's championship game, the first such tilt the Browns had failed to win since being organized.

Playing one of their best games of all time, the Browns bottled up Los Angeles' famed passing attack Sunday and stopped the Rams' running. On the offense, the Clevelanders scored four of the first five times they got the ball.

All that, said Brown, "was a matter of heart and mind." He decided on a little cooling off after it was all over.

Pittsburgh lost its opener to Philadelphia, 31-25, as Eagles quarterback Adrian Burk passed over the Steelers for three touchdowns. The Steelers depended mainly on a running attack with quarterback Jim Finks crossing the Eagle goal twice.

The Browns have won all four times they've played Pittsburgh. Besides tarnishing the crown the Rams wear, Sunday's victory also resulted in the firing of Rams coach Joe Stydahar. Hampton Pool, an assistant, took over for him Tuesday after the Los Angeles owners decided to buy up the rest of Stydahar's contract.

Joe Stydahar Resigns As Rams Coach

LOS ANGELES (AP)—J. Hampton Pool, named to succeed Jumbo Joe Stydahar as coach of the Los Angeles Rams, says he has the personnel to win another championship.

"I'm not saying we'll win it, mind you," Pool hastened to explain, "but we do have the men who can do it."

Pool is the fifth pilot of the club since its National Football League franchise was moved here from Cleveland six years ago. He was appointed Tuesday by owner Dan Reeves after Stydahar's resignation.

Stydahar said Pool, whom he selected as his assistant, wanted to run the club, "the whole works—his own way," and that he asked Reeves to intercede. Reeves, he said, refused to back him up.

"I asked for a showdown and it went against me," said the massive Stydahar, one of the pro league's all-time great linemen. "It's probably good for the ball club. I'm glad I got out."

Stydahar received his 1952 salary of $15,000, plus $7,500 as provided in the contract he signed after his Rams knocked over Cleveland last winter and won the world's championship. He said his plans are uncertain, that coaching staffs are full and that he is not particularly interested in a college job.

Pool told reporters he is going to bear down on the Rams to get them to give their level best all the time. He said he is going to be tough where Stydahar was easy going.

"Show me the 10 top winning teams in the United States and I'll show you the 10 most hated coaches," Pool told newsmen at the Rams' first practice session under his guidance.

Cassaday To Sub At Halfback Spots

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Howard (Hopalong) Cassaday, 18-year old Columbus freshman, scored three touchdowns in Ohio State's 33-13 win over Indiana Saturday — yet he's still a sub.

Coach Woody Hayes said Cassaday will alternate between right and left halfback against Purdue this Saturday. He'll do No. 1 substitute for Bob Watkins of New Bedford, Mass., at right half, and for Fred Bruney of Martins Ferry, O., at left half.

Doug Goodsell of Columbus is the No. 1 sub for Watkins, but a knee injury probably will keep him out of the Purdue game. Cassaday is the regular No. 1 sub for Bruney.

Billy Loe, youngest member of the Brooklyn Dodger pitching staff, will be 23 on Dec. 13.

Two Counties' Housing Critical

Stark, Summit Rent Control Continued

AKRON, O. (AP) — Summit and Stark County landlords began forming battle lines today to fight a government order classifying their area as critical to defense housing needs, thus blocking an end to rent controls.

Akron's Mayor Charles E. Slusser scheduled a meeting today with Chamber of Commerce officials and other rent-control opponents to discuss what could be done.

Councilman Herbert Buker of Canton also called for a meeting today of the Council Judiciary Committee to look into the legality of the "critical defense housing area" classification.

All larger Summit and Stark communities had rejected moves to retain controls, and the rent lids would have been off today were it not for the order from Washington Tuesday afternoon.

That order also covered Columbus, Youngstown and Sandusky, but councils in those three cities agreed last month to extend controls. Because of the new atomic plant to be built at Waverly, O., the Portsmouth area was classified earlier as critical to defense housing needs.

Cuyahoga Falls in Summit County has been without rent controls since its Council removed them two years ago. And Massillon, in Stark County, ended rent ceilings a year and a half ago.

Under the federal order these two communities and all others in the two counties will come under rent controls which will cover many new dwellings built since 1947—dwellings previously exempt.

"Under the law, ceilings go on to everything—hotel rooms, trailers, sleeping rooms, motels, house apartments and so forth," said Akron area rent director Russell B. Harrington.

The Akron city law director, Roy E. Browne, said he thought the landlord's fight could be waged in the Federal Court on grounds the federal government rent stabilizers had abused their powers.

Republican Rep. William H. Ayres of the 14th (Akron) Ohio District, declared the order was "a most brazen example of the administration's lust to keep their bureaucratic power," and added:

"They have ignored the intent of Congress, which was to get the government out of the rent control business and let local governing bodies decide when control was necessary."

Akron Council defeated a rent control renewal proposal, 10-3, and Canton's Council refused to bring the issue to a vote, thereby letting controls lapse automatically on Sept. 30. The council at Alliance also ignored the question.

Buker, a Republican, said a survey by Canton Council six months ago showed no need for rent ceilings. He called the critical defense housing classification "merely a vote-getting expedient."

Clinton Miller, Akron realtor, contended "Akron has more vacant houses today than at any time since the first housing enumeration was made in 1940."

At Massillon, David Dowd, a lawyer and chairman of the Laws and Claims Committee, said he thought Council could decontrol rents again 30 days after the critical housing area decision.

"The defense production authority, of course, could reinstate their order if we would decontrol again," Dowd said.

Since Massillon Council voted decontrol in February, 1951, Dowd said rents "have increased only from 25 to 30 per cent" instead of 50 per cent reported by the federal rent control office.

Asks Change In Birth Report Calling Man Girl

THREE RIVERS, Que. (AP) — A 38-year-old man says he is not a woman and his name is Joseph Romeo, no matter what his baptismal certificate says.

He asked the Superior Court here yesterday to order a change in his certificate, which attests to the birth of a girl, Marie Arthemise, Dec. 2, 1914.

The man's parents told the court Joseph's godmother was named Marie Arthemise. The priest at the baptism apparently entered her name on the wrong line, then deduced from that the baby was female.

Nobody noticed the mistake until Joseph's employer asked for the certificate in connection with a pension fund.

Joseph also told the court he's married and is the father of six children. Judge Leon LaJoie said he would give a decision later.

Lady Astor's Husband, 73, Dies In England

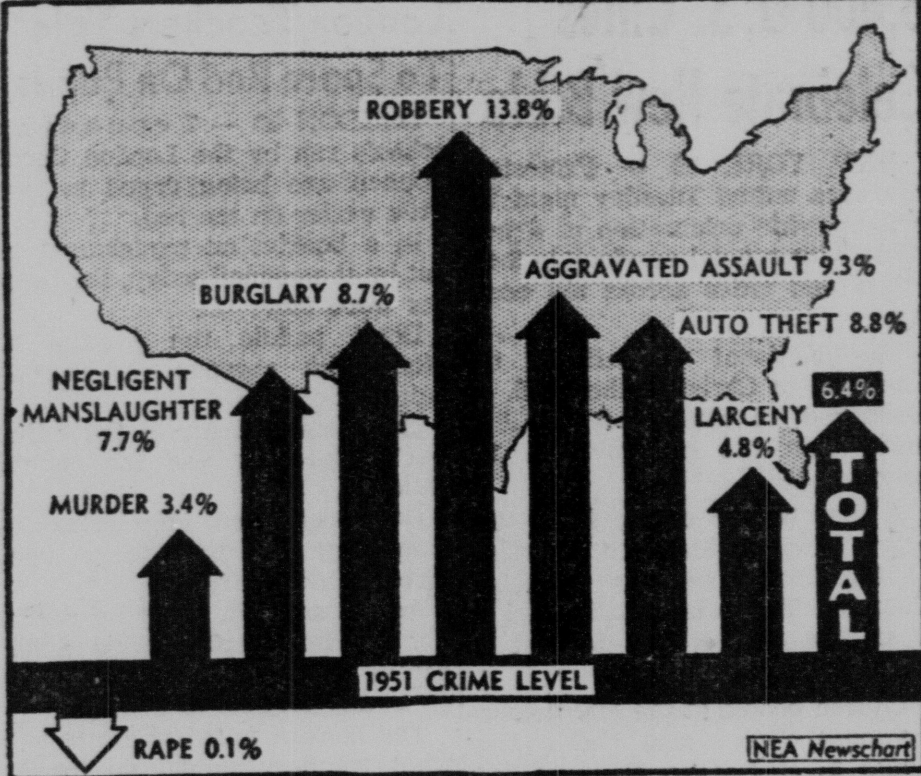

CLIVEDEN, England (AP) — Viscount Astor, prominent British publisher and sportsman and husband of Virginia-born Lady Nancy Astor, died Tuesday. He was 73.

Lord Astor, who was born in New York City, long had been a leader in British social and political life, along with his wife.

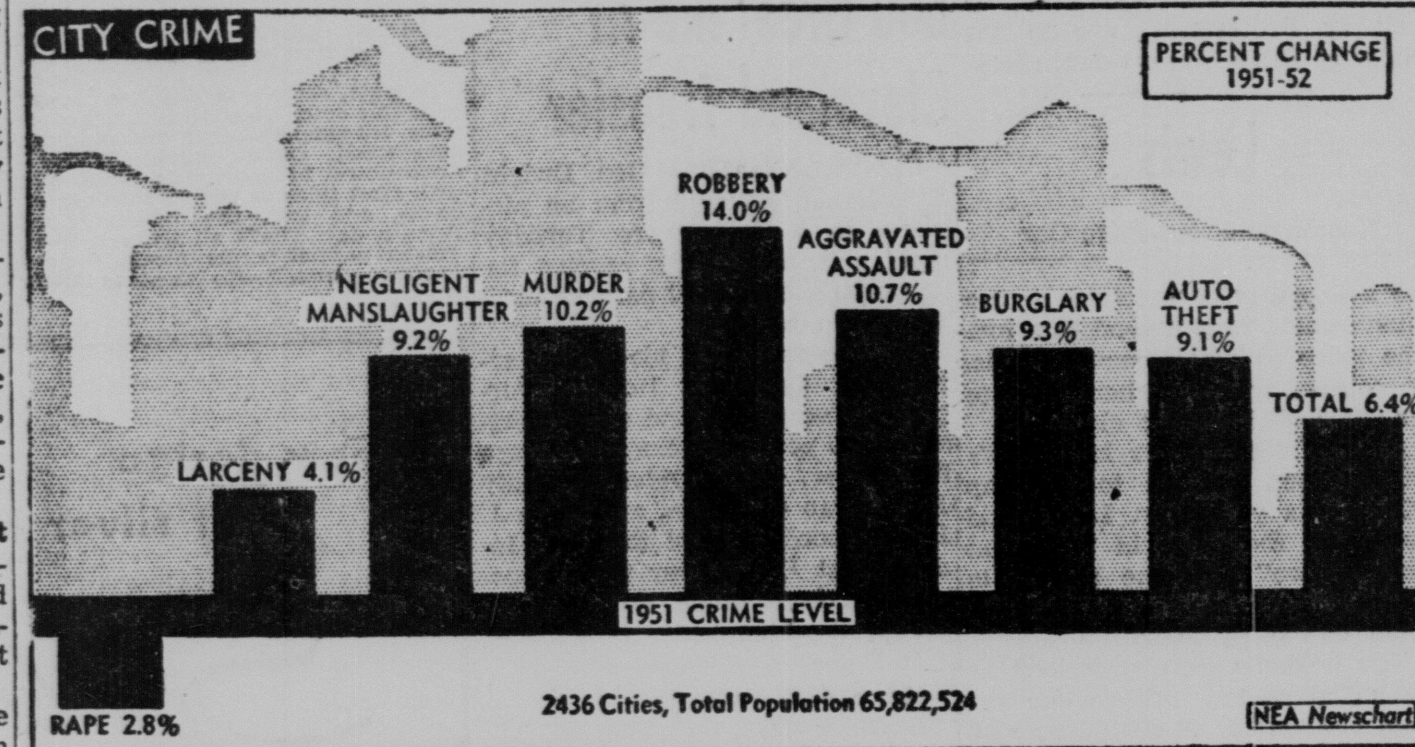

His death followed a long illness. Unable, because of his title, to hold a seat in the House of Commons, Lord Astor sponsored his wife's political career and helped her to become the first woman ever elected to the lower parliamentary chamber.

Crime Trend Continues Up, Says the FBI

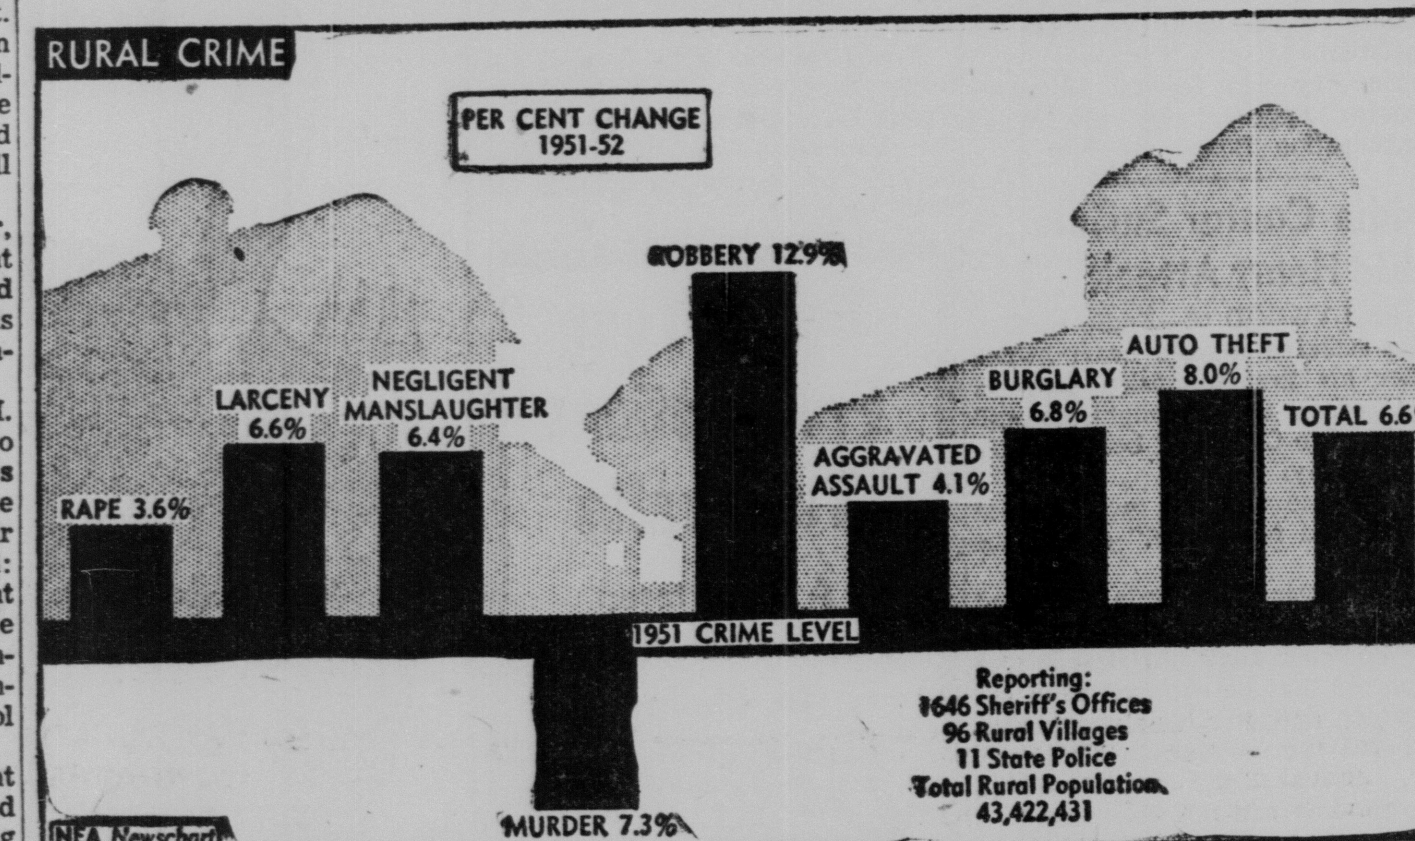

The nation's crime rate for the first six months of 1952 is up 6.4 per cent over the similar period of 1951. This is the result of more than a million crimes between January and June, 1952. FBI says if this rate of increase continues, more than two million crimes will be reported by 1952's end. Newscharts here, based on data from the semi-annual report of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, show (right) the national crime rate and (below) the breakdown on major crimes in cities and in rural areas.

NATIONALLY, all major crimes except rape, showed substantial increases. Greatest increases were in crimes involving property theft.

BY AND LARGE, city crime reflects the national trend. The largest cities had the biggest incidence of all crime except negligent manslaughter and larceny.

MURDER TREND in rural areas decreased radically while city rate was increasing. Upswing in robberies was nearly parallel in cities and rural towns. While rape decreased in cities, it increased in country.

Gift Funds And Taxes

By HAL BOYLE

HOMETOWN, U. S. A. — Wilbur Peeble, America's average citizen, joined a group reading a notice his boss had just pinned to the office bulletin board.

The notice said: "To all employees: 'The management has been asked whether it plans to start a gift fund to retain high caliber employees who have been offered government jobs at three times their present salary. We don't."

"A statement of the firm's financial position is attached. Attention is directed to the portions in red ink."

"The management also announces that if the employees wish to start a private fund to help the firm meet its expenses their contributions will be gratefully accepted."

(Signed) The Boss. Wilbur shook his head. Later in the morning he sneaked downstairs to get a haircut on company time.

Before attacking with his shears, the barber bowed and handed him a sheet of paper covered with figures.

"What is this, Tony?" asked Wilbur. "My profit-and-loss statement for the last 20 years," replied Tony.

"What do I care about that?" said Wilbur. "I'm tired of hearing the public say barbers are scalping them," said Tony. "You will please note my car is five years old and I am still using the same scissors I started business with. Just can't afford a new pair."

Fascinated, Wilbur studied the figures. After work he dropped into a bar across the street. With his Martini the bartender held out a black notebook.

"My income tax payments for the last five years," he said. "The politicians say they are clean as a bound's tooth — well, I'm cleaner than a toothless bound. You can see no tax payment for 1949. I want to go into that in detail. I worked for my brother that year and anybody knows when he works for a member of his own family he can't even steal enough to make him owe taxes."

Still later, when he entered his neighborhood grocery store, Wilbur was dazed to see the butcher scribbling like mad.

"The housewives are demanding a complete accounting of my finances," he said. "They even started an ugly rumor that I was curing my lumbago with a mustard plaster made of $10 bills. Come with me, Mr. Peeble. I want you to know the full truth."

Wilbur followed him into the back room, where the butcher peeled to the waist. Five $10 bills were banded across one kidney.

"You can see how easily things get exaggerated, can't you?" demanded the butcher.

Wilbur laughed to himself all the way home. "The political candidates now have got the voters following their bare - your - bankbook campaigns," he told his wife, and added jokingly: "When are you going to give a public report on your private fur coat fund?"

"I'm glad you brought that up, Wilbur," said Trellis Mae. She went to a vase and shook out some paper.

"The fund is empty," she said. "But I have 10 of your I. O. U.'s totaling $150. What I want to know is what you did with the money. And don't tell me you used it to fight Communism. Are you subsidizing that new blonde stenographer in your office?"

Wilbur's mouth opened and closed like a winded goldfish. "I deny all," he said. "I will not dignify such baseless accusations with an answer. This trend toward financial nudism has got to stop somewhere, and it is, going to stop right here."

But if you think it did—well, you just don't know Trellis Mae.

74 FISHERMEN SAVED. SANTA MARIA, Azores (AP)—All 74 men aboard the Portuguese fishing vessel Joao Costa which sank in the stormy Atlantic a week ago have been picked up by freighters, it was reported here today.

Army Unveils New Atomic Gun That Fires Super Barrages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has unveiled a new 85-ton atomic gun and shown that it can roll nimbly across fields into position to fire super-explosive barrages within 20 minutes.

It is the world's first atomic artillery piece.

The gun, which the Army calls an "all-purpose weapon," was put through its paces at a special preview for photographers at the Aberdeen, Md., Proving Grounds recently.

Ordnance experts have been trying out its mobility and firing capacity for months at the giant testing grounds, but standard ammunition was used rather than atomic rounds.

The Army indicated the weapon can use either atomic or standard rounds merely by changing the type of missile.

The gun has a caliber of 280 millimeters—approximately 12 inches. This, in itself, discloses how compactly the Atomic Energy Commission scientists now are able to build atomic missiles which at one time could barely be crowded into the bomb bay of a B-29.

There was talk at the demonstration of a 20-mile range for the gun.

This approximates the range for coastal defense and naval guns of somewhat similar caliber.

Twenty miles would be a practical distance for placing the gun safely behind friendly lines, firing over those lines and laying down an atomic barrage on enemy infantry and armor without endangering friendly troops from the blasts, heat or radiation.

In the non-atomic demonstration at Aberdeen, conventional propellant charges of standard powder, in bags, were loaded behind an ordinary test projectile.

The rate of fire seemed to be approximately that of any of the large caliber, non-automatic guns used by the Army and Navy.

This is how the "all-purpose weapon" looks to visitors: Its tube is almost 40 feet long, designed to stabilize the missile by a spinning motion, just like a standard gun.

The elevation of its muzzle, or maximum range, appears also to be like that used in a standard gun.

A two-gun battery is used in the Aberdeen tests.

Nine other vehicles are used in support, including two power-generating trucks. The power unit is hooked to the gun by electrical cable, thus supplying electrical power for traversing and raising the elevation of the rifle.

Two engine cabs, looking much like the hauling end of the tractor trailer rigs you see on the highways, but with heavier construction, supply the power for moving the chassis through 500-horsepower engines.

The gun and its mount handles almost exactly like a fire department's aerial ladder truck. The driver in the rear cab has a telephone headset connecting him with the "tiller man" informed of his steering moves.

Essentially, the atomic gun is a vastly improved version of the familiar railway gun—but with the major advantage of not being pinned down to railroad lines.

The gun, wheeling off a highway over which it can move at the speed of most heavy-laden trucks, trundles out onto a field, combing over humps and rough grounds on the many wheels of its two tractor units and followed by the supporting units of trucks.

Crews swarm out of the trucks. Hydraulic hoists lower the gun and its punt from the tractors, which pull away.

There is no "rail" or "Spade" like ordinary artillery pieces use to hold the gun in position against the action of recoil. The tube is so precisely balanced on the mount that the recoil has little effect.

A small crane, which is part of the mount assembly, picks up the charge from a dolly or truck, swings it over a steel slide and the charge slips into the breech.

Four-Man Cabinet Formed By Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—After a week of fruitless attempts at forming a full parliamentary government, Lebanon's President Camille Chamoun has named Amir Khalid Shehab to head a four-man administrative cabinet.

The appointment, decreed last night by Chamoun, appeared to have ended at least temporarily the ministerial crisis which followed the resignation last week of President Bechara el Khoury under opposition pressure. Chamoun was elected by Parliament to fill El Khoury's place.

Amir Shehab now is Lebanese minister to Jordan.

Woman, 93, To Cast 1st Vote In November

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Mrs. Dollie Lamon Teillard, whose father was Abraham Lincoln's law partner, will vote for the first time in November, and for the Republican presidential candidate too.

Although 93-year-old Mrs. Teillard practically grew up in the lap of politics, she was living in France when women won the right to vote in 1920. And after returning to this country about 12 years ago, she lived in Washington, D.C., where residents do not have the right to vote.

She moved here more than a year ago—long enough to qualify for this year's election.

Gift Funds And Taxes

By HAL BOYLE

HOMETOWN, U. S. A. — Wilbur Peeble, America's average citizen, joined a group reading a notice his boss had just pinned to the office bulletin board.

The notice said: "To all employees: 'The management has been asked whether it plans to start a gift fund to retain high caliber employees who have been offered government jobs at three times their present salary. We don't."

"A statement of the firm's financial position is attached. Attention is directed to the portions in red ink."

"The management also announces that if the employees wish to start a private fund to help the firm meet its expenses their contributions will be gratefully accepted."

(Signed) The Boss. Wilbur shook his head. Later in the morning he sneaked downstairs to get a haircut on company time.

Before attacking with his shears, the barber bowed and handed him a sheet of paper covered with figures.

"What is this, Tony?" asked Wilbur. "My profit-and-loss statement for the last 20 years," replied Tony.

"What do I care about that?" said Wilbur. "I'm tired of hearing the public say barbers are scalping them," said Tony. "You will please note my car is five years old and I am still using the same scissors I started business with. Just can't afford a new pair."

Fascinated, Wilbur studied the figures. After work he dropped into a bar across the street. With his Martini the bartender held out a black notebook.

Taft Plugs For Ike In Tennessee

Says Stevenson Fell Into Communist Trap

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft plugged for Gen. Dwight Eisenhower for President Tuesday night in East Tennessee, the GOP stronghold which furnished some of Taft's stoutest support for his own presidential bid.

The Ohio senator accused Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic nominee, of falling right into a Communist trap in backing the spending policies of the Truman administration.

Taft said Lenin, prophet of Russian Communism, has been quoted as saying, "The best way to destroy the capitalist system is to debase the currency."

"No one can deny that prices are steadily increasing under the policy of the Truman administration," Taft said. "Gov. Stevenson offers no remedy except remedies that have failed, and he endorses the policy of the Truman administration."

The senator said the decline in the value of money has resulted from a deliberate policy of inflation pursued by the Truman administration since the war.

"It is very well," he said, for Stevenson to advocate a balanced budget, "but as long as he resists any cut in defense expenses, that policy really is a program of more taxation."

Taft said Eisenhower has agreed that a budget goal of 60 million dollars will enable taxes to be cut.

Taft carries his campaign for the Republican ticket back into his home state tonight with a speech at Cleveland.

There were other indications, however, that the matter will not be dropped entirely.

The House Un-American Activities Committee decided to call Smith to appear before it Oct. 13 in Philadelphia to testify on Communist infiltration into government agencies.

Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.) said in a statement released through his office here that Smith's statement "emphasizes the fact that communism's greatest threat to this nation is from within our borders."

tee, headed by Rep. Chelf (D-Ky.), pictures McGrath as an official who exhibited "a deplorable lack of knowledge of the department he was supposed to administer."

It adds:

"His testimony and his record as attorney general indicate that he was content to let the status quo remain without knowing what the status quo was."

In particular, investigators said of McGrath:

1. He made "inappropriate appointments to high office"—specifically, the appointment of A. Devitt Vanech as deputy attorney general. Vanech, investigators said, had made "improper representations to gain admittance to practice before the Tennessee and U. S. Bars."

Vanech was shown by investigators to have failed the District of Columbia Bar examinations three times and the Virginia Bar examination once before being admitted to the Tennessee Bar as a non-resident.

2. He (McGrath) had little interest in purging the justice Department of "wrongdoers and incompetents," and gave little aid to Newbold Morris after naming him to direct the ill-fated housecleaning in Washington last spring. McGrath fired Morris just before he himself was forced to resign by President Truman.

3. He failed "completely" to cooperate with Chelf committee investigators and "surrounded himself with subordinates of the same view."

Investigators added, however, that "in fairness to Mr. McGrath" it should be noted the majority of his subordinates were originally placed in top positions by Tom Clark, McGrath's predecessor who now is a Supreme Court justice.

"All he does is cash dividend checks"

Last Tuesday, we ordered 20 shares of stock in a utility company for a customer of ours. While we were entering the purchase in the records of his account, this fact jumped out and hit us:

Though he has bought stock 33 times and sold 17 times, this customer hasn't been in our office since the day he opened his account in 1938!

All of his selling and buying was done by telephone. We've kept his stock certificates for him. We've collected his dividends, and sent them on to him. We've kept him posted on all his stockholder privileges. Regularly we send him a complete statement of his account.

Know what these services have cost him? Except for our commission when he bought or sold, not a penny. All free—just part of our way of doing business. If you've always been "too busy to invest," maybe you ought to come in and see how we can take the load off your shoulders.

ory of the rousing welcome given to him yesterday in Columbia, S. C. where 50,000 people roared, "We want Ike." They cheered his attacks on President Truman and the Democratic presidential nominee.

On the steps of the historic old South Carolina State House, Eisenhower was introduced by Gov. James F. Byrnes—once a friend of President Truman and one-time secretary of state in the Truman Cabinet.

A lifelong Democrat, Byrnes called for the people to put their country above a party label and to elect Eisenhower as the man who could clean up "the mess in Washington" and prevent a third world war.

Eisenhower gave a hint, before leaving Columbia, that he is ready to launch an attack on Communists-in-government at almost any time.

Eisenhower had been pressed for comment on a statement by Gen. Bedell Smith, chief of the super-secret Central Intelligence Agency, that he believed Communists had infiltrated even into his organization. Later, Smith said he knew of no Communists in the organization—but had to assume enemy agents had infiltrated into it.

Eisenhower talked to Smith yesterday about his statement—given in a legal deposition.

Eisenhower's press secretary, James Hagerty, said Eisenhower told Smith—his war-time chief of staff—that he did not intend to attack either Smith or the CIA. But Hagerty said Eisenhower did not mean he would not speak out against subversives in government positions.

In Columbia, he openly bid for the people's support against Stevenson.

Byrnes, introducing the general, said the people of South Carolina know if the Democratic candidate is elected, he is under such obligation to President Truman he would have to continue the Truman policies and many of the Truman appointees. He has embraced the policies and the appointees have embraced him.

"The people of South Carolina know that the job of cleaning up the 'mess' cannot be entrusted to the men who made the 'mess,'" Byrnes ended his introduction by saying: "If we want to avoid a third world war, to bring an end to the war in Korea and bring an end to corruption in Washington, we can best do it by electing as president of the United States the man I present to you, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower."

"The people of South Carolina know that the job of cleaning up the 'mess' cannot be entrusted to the men who made the 'mess,'" Byrnes ended his introduction by saying: "If we want to avoid a third world war, to bring an end to the war in Korea and bring an end to corruption in Washington, we can best do it by electing as president of the United States the man I present to you, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower."

ory of the rousing welcome given to him yesterday in Columbia, S. C. where 50,000 people roared, "We want Ike." They cheered his attacks on President Truman and the Democratic presidential nominee.

On the steps of the historic old South Carolina State House, Eisenhower was introduced by Gov. James F. Byrnes—once a friend of President Truman and one-time secretary of state in the Truman Cabinet.

A lifelong Democrat, Byrnes called for the people to put their country above a party label and to elect Eisenhower as the man who could clean up "the mess in Washington" and prevent a third world war.

Eisenhower gave a hint, before leaving Columbia, that he is ready to launch an attack on Communists-in-government at almost any time.

Eisenhower had been pressed for comment on a statement by Gen. Bedell Smith, chief of the super-secret Central Intelligence Agency, that he believed Communists had infiltrated even into his organization. Later, Smith said he knew of no Communists in the organization—but had to assume enemy agents had infiltrated into it.

Eisenhower talked to Smith yesterday about his statement—given in a legal deposition.

Eisenhower's press secretary, James Hagerty, said Eisenhower told Smith—his war-time chief of staff—that he did not intend to attack either Smith or the CIA. But Hagerty said Eisenhower did not mean he would not speak out against subversives in government positions.

In Columbia, he openly bid for the people's support against Stevenson.

Byrnes, introducing the general, said the people of South Carolina know if the Democratic candidate is elected, he is under such obligation to President Truman he would have to continue the Truman policies and many of the Truman appointees. He has embraced the policies and the appointees have embraced him.

the average price received by the mine owners runs around $5 a ton. The price to retail consumers is, of course, much higher, due to freight and handling charges.

A handful of owners in Moody's Dixie group refused to sign up with Lewis yesterday. Lewis said he'd give the holdouts "the next day or two" to come around to the contract terms before ordering them closed by strike.

The holdouts were described as having about four million tons annual production, as compared with the 110 million output of Moody's entire group. Those still unsigned included the Island Creek Coal Huntington, W. Va., and the Logan County (W. Va.) Coal Operators Association.

The pay and royalty increases require approval by the Wage Stabilization Board.

Eddie Cantor Suffers Mild Heart Attack

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Eddie Cantor, who suffered a mild heart attack after his first television show of the season Sunday night, is still confined to Cedars of Lebanon hospital today.

His nurse said this morning that he "rested fairly well" during the night.

The 60-year-old comic collapsed at his Beverly Hills home after the one-hour show. At first it was reported that he suffered from exhaustion but later his physician attributed the collapse to his heart. Dr. Julius Kahn reported the "symptoms are not alarming."

"All he does is cash dividend checks"

Last Tuesday, we ordered 20 shares of stock in a utility company for a customer of ours. While we were entering the purchase in the records of his account, this fact jumped out and hit us:

Though he has bought stock 33 times and sold 17 times, this customer hasn't been in our office since the day he opened his account in 1938!

All of his selling and buying was done by telephone. We've kept his stock certificates for him. We've collected his dividends, and sent them on to him. We've kept him posted on all his stockholder privileges. Regularly we send him a complete statement of his account.

Know what these services have cost him? Except for our commission when he bought or sold, not a penny. All free—just part of our way of doing business. If you've always been "too busy to invest," maybe you ought to come in and see how we can take the load off your shoulders.

"Cinerama", Movies In Three Dimensions, Demonstrated

By EDWARD CURTIS
NEW YORK (U)—You can now take a dizzy ride on a roller coaster—sitting in a movie seat. You'll gasp, get clammy hands. It's real.

It's Cinerama. This is a new movie system of projecting pictures which gives an illusion of the third dimension—depth.

After its premiere last night at the Broadway Theater, old movie-man Louis B. Mayer exclaimed: "I think it means new life for pictures. It'll do for the industry what sound did for silent pictures."

The first showing of the new film is pitched on its technique rather than a dramatic story. The backers of the new process wanted to show what it could do. The result is a series of beautiful and at times startling sketches in color of Europe and American scenes.

The film is projected on a curved screen. It's like looking into the bottom of a "U". The screen is about six times the size of the one in your neighborhood theater. The image on the screen is not one picture. It's really three. In making the movie, the photographer uses a camera with three lenses. One looks straight ahead, a second to the left and a third to the right.

The projection is the same way. You see three pictures joined together as one on the big screen. Because of the curve in the screen, you get the illusion of depth.

With the new projection system, Cinerama also has come up with new sound. There are five loudspeakers spaced around the curved screen and other loudspeakers are at the sides and in back of the theater.

The most exciting sequence in the film, "This Is Cinerama," was the opening one. This took the audience on a roller coaster ride with all the realism of being in the front coaster seat.

Radio, TV Notebook

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
NEW YORK (U)—All five of the announcers talking the World Series for radio and TV are veterans at this kind of broadcasting. They have done many such events in the past and established themselves as all-around sports commentators.

Helfer has been doing Game of the Day baseball for MBS all summer. Brickhouse is from Chicago. Corum has been heard on many a fight broadcast for the same sponsor.

The TV via NBC and four MBS-owned stations will be related by Mel Allen and Red Barber. Allen has been announcing the Yankees on both local radio and TV. Barber has been doing likewise for the Dodgers.

The second game for Thursday again will go on the air at 12:45 p.m., 15 minutes ahead of game time, originating again from Brooklyn's Ebbetts Field.

Police Hunt Murderer Of Barberton Mechanic
CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (U)—Police of five states today hunted a young man wearing a green plaid shirt as a suspect in the murder of a Barberton, O., mechanic.

The slaying victim was Denzil Sands, 20-year-mechanic for the Babcock and Wilcox Steel Co. Police believed a hitchhiker he picked up may have killed him.

Sands was shot five times in the face and dumped in a ditch here. His blood-stained automobile was found abandoned three miles away. His billfold was found empty.

Sands left Barberton after midnight Saturday with a week's pay of $73. His wife and their infant son were visiting here, and he was going to take them back to Ohio.

The man police are seeking boarded a bus almost at the spot where Sands' car was found.
